What is Money?

"History is only the register of crimes and misfortunes." – Voltaire

I worked at a well-known bank in 2014. I won't mention any names. Some super greedy people worked at this bank. Four workers were fired that year for stealing French fries at the cafeteria! Just horrendous. I always found the concept of money interesting, but mysterious.

I asked the two questions that would unlock the vault of knowledge for years to come:

"What is money?"

"Where does money come from?"

These questions kept swirling around in my head. I asked every banker that I encountered. Unfortunately, no one had the answer. I was curious so I did my homework.

Money has been used in various forms and is the basis for a civilized society. Money has come in the form of cacao beans, chia seeds, tally sticks, stones, seashells, bronze, copper, gold and silver. In ancient Egypt, gold and silver were used to store the wealth of Pharaoh.

Money is more than just stacks of currency. Money is an energetic exchange between two parties. Even the '$' symbol has ancient roots that date back to Egypt. The '$' symbol translates to 'IS' which goes back to Isis- the Egyptian god of the moon. It stands for insurance script. Human bodies were worth money.

The Aztecs and Mayans used cacao beans as money. Cacao was much more valuable than gold or silver to the Aztecs. The Aztecs used cacao beans as currency, especially when Montezuma collected the taxes (up to 40%). Like tea in Asia, the cacao quickly became an important part of the Aztec's daily life. The upper and lower class were exposed to cacao, and it quickly became the preferred currency for many people in the region.

For example, the Aztec empire received an annual tribute of 7.8 million cacao beans from local tributes under their control. Money doesn't grow on trees, but chocolate does!
According to a Nahuatl paper (1545) from Central Mexico:
1 turkey cost 200 cacao beans.
1 human slave cost 100 cacao beans.
1 small rabbit cost 30 cacao beans.
1 fresh avocado cost 3 cacao beans.
1 tomato costs 1 cacao bean.
1 tamale cost 1 cacao bean.
Cacao beans were used as currency in Mexico until 1887.

In 700 B.C. gold is first minted into coins in Lydia (present day Turkey). However, gold and silver were valued even before they were used as money. Both were portable, divisible and durable. Athens became the first democracy with the world's first free market system and working tax system.

Gold and silver revalued themselves automatically throughout the free market system. This dates back to 407 B.C. from the first currency crash in Athens. They devalued their money by adding copper in their gold and silver coins, just like the U.S did with their deficit spending. Remember 90% silver? Why was the silver content removed from our coins in the 1960's?

Today, we do not have real money. Federal Reserve Notes are the ghost of money. They are one of many fiat currencies around the world. The word fiat is Latin for "let it be done." Money is a medium of exchange. It is simply a neutral tool in which two parties exchange their energy in the form of money.

Silver is real money. To a lesser extent gold is to but is better at storing a large amount of wealth in a small space. Silver is small enough to be used for daily transactions. These precious metals are some of the few real assets left. Real assets protect your purchasing power. Look at silver as a way to value your time.

Back in the Roman Empire, soldiers received a 1/10 oz. Denarius coin for roughly 12 hours of hard labor each day, approximately $2 today. Keep in mind that 2/3 of the world's population lives on less than $2/day. In ancient Rome, emperors wanted to stretch out their money. They debased their currency and made the money cheaper. They even invented welfare to assist about 200,000 people, one fifth of the population.

Their silver coins went through many phases of devaluation: coin clipping, smaller coins sizes, shrinking the silver content while increasing the alloy content, and by the year 225, bronze coins were washed with a thin film of silver.

Money is the foundation of all power throughout history. Two Roman emperors attempted to limit the power of the money changers by limiting usury and limiting land ownership to under 500 acres. Both emperors were assassinated. Julius Caesar reclaimed the power from the moneychangers to mint money. Julius Caesar created debt-free money and built many public works in the realm of architecture.

Fast forward to March 15, 44 B.C. when Julius Caesar was assassinated. He was stabbed 23 times. Brutus plunged the final knife into his groin!

The conspirators claimed that Julius Caesar put his face on the Roman coins which "upset" the gods. In reality, Julius Caesar took power away from the financial gods in Rome. After his assassination, Rome collapsed. The debased money became scarce. Cultural hedonism ruled the land. Corruption was spreading. Interest rates and taxes skyrocketed.

Romans lost their lands because of debt and money flowed to the wealthy lenders who held the debt. All major religions throughout history outlawed usury. It was an unnatural part of life. Money was designed to serve people, not people serving the money. Interest is an unnecessary tax the purpose of money.

Banks lend out more than they have on deposit. This is a fact. We are living in a very scary time in American history. The U.S. dollar was first authorized for circulation on Sept. 8, 1786, even though it was used previously throughout the colonies. In 1787, the gold and silver clause was added to the U.S. Constitution. Specifically in Article 1, Section 10, Clause, 1:

"No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but GOLD AND SILVER COIN Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility."

Gold and silver became legal tender for the payment of debts. Only Congress had the power to borrow money on credit.

Fractional banking originally came from the First Bank of the U.S. in 1791. They were known for currency manipulation and usury. Their questionable lending practices were delivered at a 10:1 rate. For every $10 in loans, there would be $1 in the bank. First Bank only lasted 20 years. However, this far-fetched lending practice continues to this day.

Fast forward to 1900 with the Gold Standard Act.

…the dollar consisting of 1.5 g of 9/10 fine gold, established by section 350011 of the Revised Statutes of the U.S., shall be the standard unit of value, and all forms of money issued or coined by the U.S. shall be maintained at a parity of value with this standard….

U.S. silver certificates were used as paper money from 1878-1964, primarily in $1, $5 and $10 denominations. These certificates were redeemable for silver dollar coins and later silver bullion.

Great Britain relied on tally sticks as money dating back to 1100 A.D. King Henry took the power away from the money changers in 1100. He created the longest and most successful monetary system ever, the Tally Stick system. One half of the sticks were kept in the treasury to prevent counterfeiting. The other half was spent by the King into the economy. The English paid the king's taxes with the tally sticks.

The British used those silly sticks for 700 years! Obviously, that didn't last. Money is the ultimate lever of power, especially for governments. In 1843, England introduced a new currency, and all of the tally sticks were burned.

Paper money was invented by the Song Dynasty in 11th century China centuries before the minting of metal coins. While paper money was easier to carry in quantity, it comes with the risk of inflation and counterfeiting. The Song Dynasty (960-1279 CE) setup licensed "banks" where people could deposit coins and receive paper money notes. The Chinese used silk for larger transactions. For smaller transactions, they used round bronze coins with holes called cash. This is the origin behind cash.

During the 1100's, the Song government centralized the monetary system and issued jiaozi, the world's first government paper money. This was the first fiat currency to be used as letters of credit in the economy.

There were four money printing factories in the provinces of Anqi, Chengdu, Hangzhou and Huizhou. The notes would expire after 3 years to encourage people to use them instead of hoarding cash. In 1215, the Song government issued an international currency that was backed by amounts of 1 and all the way up to 100 strings of silver and gold coins. Unfortunately, this fiat currency lasted 9 years after the Song dynasty fell to the Mongols in 1279.

Kublai Khan (1215-1294), from the Mongol Yuan Dynasty, issued their paper money chao. This currency made its way to Persia where it was referred to as djaou. The paper money was not backed by precious metals. Kublai Khan's dynasty went on a crazy money printing spree (sound familiar?) that turned into hyperinflation. This led to the devastating collapse of the empire in 1368.

The Ming Dynasty (1368-1644) came in and started to print another wave of paper money. Ironically, this currency was not backed by precious metals. The currency was shut down in 1450. Silver was the physical currency of choice during the Ming Dynasty. Literal tons of silver were exported from Mexico and Peru via Spanish traders.

The Ming Dynasty learned that one of the key qualities for a successful fiat currency is that all taxes must be paid in this currency. Unfortunately, their paper currency failed to pay for their war budget. Excessive money printing put the last nail in the coffin for the Ming as it failed to fight off Li Zicheng's renegade army.

The Chinese reverted back to a silver standard from the 1500's to the 1800's. Their economy grew at a very steady pace. China would not print paper money until the 1890's when the Qing Dynasty introducing the yuan, the current fiat currency of China today.

Let's not forget about the Mongol empire in the 1200's. For a century, the empire of the Mongol Khans was the largest empire in human history. In the 13th century, the Mongols conquered China, India, Pakistan, Syria, Russia, Turkey and Eastern Europe. They massacred the vast majority of their captives, leaving only the key traders, artisans, engineers and translators.

Their goldsmiths created profitable jewelry and coins. As a bonus, they profited off storing valuables. They gave paper receipts for the gold. The greedy goldsmiths printed more receipts than gold and spent them into the Mongol economy. As another bonus, they made even more money by contracting the money supply.

Hidden Hands

"The powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole." - Carroll Quigley

In 1963, President Kennedy signed Executive Order 11110 to strip the power away from the Federal Reserve. Ironically, it is still valid. This order gives the Treasury Department the authority to issue new money into circulation based on silver bullion physically held in the vaults.

President Kennedy was assassinated just five short months after signing this executive order.

The infamous Federal Reserve was hatched on Jekyll Island off the coast of Georgia on Dec. 23, 1913. Some of the crooked bankers include Max & Paul Warburg, Carter Glass, J.P. Morgan, J.D. Rockefeller, Jacob Schiff. All of these men were connected to the Rothschilds. President Woodrow Wilson signed it in exchange for campaign contributions. Their board is comprised of 12 regional districts.

Since 1913, the dollar has lost 95% of its purchasing power. When Woodrow Wilson came to power, he sold the U.S. into slavery. After being indoctrinated by these crooked bankers, he assisted with the launch of the Federal Reserve. This would stack the deck in their favor. The Federal Reserve does not have our best interests at heart.

It is a ruthless, private oligarchy of the collective elite, not a non-profit that they claim to be. They are not federal and there is no reserves. This foundation was necessary for the Rockefellers and Rothschild's to consolidate power over the U.S. and eventually world domination. Ever notice why so many super villains shoot for world domination?

President Wilson was essentially a puppet for the bankers. The Rothschild's financed the British Empire. This allowed the empire to invade 9 out of every 10 countries on earth based on gunboat diplomacy. At one time, they were the most powerful family worldwide.

I bet they are still high up on the list. The net worth is in the trillions. The funny part is that they are nowhere to be found on the Forbes Richest People List. They funded the Chinese Opium Wars. Let's not forget the Conquest of India as well as the New World Colonies.

Currency is not real money. Take out your wallet and look at your dollar. At the top it will say Federal Reserve Note. Read the fine print: legal tender to use for all debts public and private. U.S. gold and silver certificates were replaced with Federal Reserve Notes because of the Federal Reserve. This unconstitutional act allowed a private group of bankers to print paper as money.

The Federal Reserve secretly formed and took illegal control of our monetary system. The U.S. dollar has been borrowed into existence plus interest. The FR creates all currency and lends it to the U.S. government & private institutions with interest. The "system" is designed against us. This is your writing on the wall. In 1913, the federal income tax was created to pay the interest to the Federal Reserve.

THE INCOME TAX HAS BEEN RULED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

BY THE SUPREME COURT TWICE!

The Federal Reserve is a private, foreign owned bank. We are living in a paper paradigm and cash is trash! These taxes also funded the government's debt expansion. The interest on the debt had to be guaranteed by the taxes on the people. Our current dollars will come to an end. It is a debt-based fiat currency that loses value and it is built to fail.

Before 1913, our cash was backed by silver. On the top of each bill, it read "Silver Certificate" and now they read "Federal Reserve Note." On the back of each note, there is a pyramid with the all seeing eye, a hidden symbol popularized by the Bavarian Illuminati, the idea of "illumination of knowledge." The Latin words, Novus Ordo Seclorum, translates into "the New World Order has begun." This is not a small coincidence. It was orchestrated that way.

The Federal Reserve is a private corporation. This country is a corporation where our souls are sold on the NYSE, futures are sold on us based on our birth certificates, which is why we are used as collateral, to secure the international banker debt, and our souls and spirits are illegally monetized.

This would stack the deck in their favor. The Fed has top secret buildings, they print off trillions of notes and they flood the country. Nothing but debt that can never be paid off. Unrepayable debt. How can someone pay off a debt with debt-based money? Every single dollar (Federal Reserve Note) in existence is an unrepayable loan. A loan is not real money, especially if you "print" it off on a monopoly-colored printing press.

This is one of biggest financial scams of all time.

"The actual process of money creation takes place primarily in banks….bankers discovered that they could make loans merely by giving their promise to pay, or bank notes, to borrowers. In this way banks began to create money. Transaction deposits are the modern counterpart of bank notes.

It was a small step from printing notes to making book entries crediting deposits of borrowers, which the borrowers in turn could 'spend' by writing checks, thereby 'printing' their own money." – Modern Money Mechanics, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago

ALL PAPER AND DIGITAL MONEY IS BORROWED INTO EXISTENCE.

Money does not exist until someone goes to the bank to borrow it. The "interest" does not exist. How can someone pay the "interest" on a fabricated debt?

There is nothing to back up our monopoly paper promises. Our children are enslaved to pay for debts that do not exist. The bankers just made up the numbers! Colonel Edward Mandell House met with President Woodrow Wilson during his term in office (1913-1921). This is what the Colonel discussed:

"Very soon, every American will be required to register their biological property (you and your kids) in a national system designed to keep track of the people and that will operate under the ancient system of pledging. By such methodology, we can compel people to submit to our agenda, which will affect our security as a charge back for our fiat paper currency.

Every American will be forced to register or suffer being able to work and earn a living. They will be our chattels (property) and we will hold the security interest over them forever, by operation of the law merchant under the scheme of secured transactions.

Americans, by unknowingly or unwittingly delivering the bills of lading (birth certificates) to us will be rendered bankrupt and insolvent, secured by their pledges. They will be stripped of their rights and given a commercial value designed to make us a profit and they will be none the wiser, for not one man in a million could ever figure out our plans and, if by accident one or two should figure it out, we have in our arsenal plausible deniability.

After all, this is the only logical way to fund government, by floating liens and debts to our registrants in the form of benefits and privileges. This will inevitably reap us huge profits beyond our wildest expectations and leave America a contributor to this fraud, which we call "social insurance."

Without realizing it, every American will unknowingly be our servant. The people will become helpless and without any hope for their redemption and we will employ the high office (presidency) of our dummy corporation (USA) to foment this plot against America."

– Colonel Edward Mandell House

And the elite say that people who ask questions are "conspiracy theorists." This term was used in the 1960's by the CIA to discredit fellow researchers who were trying to investigate the JFK assassination. The whole premise behind a conspiracy is a covert plan to be carried out by two or more people. With regards to a conspiracy theory, it is simply a working intellectual concept to produce some type of an event. That means we are all in a conspiracy!

Let's dig even deeper.

Apparently, the Federal Reserve has it all figured out. Take $0.02 of cotton-based materials and print off a $100 note, not bad for 500,000% profit! I guess crime really does pay off.
Today there is no honest money. "Credit" is created with a signature.

"A deposit created through lending is a debt that has to be paid on demand of the depositor, just the same as the debt arising from a customer's deposit of checks or currency in the bank. Of course, they do not really pay out loans from the money they receive as deposits.

If they did this, no additional money would be created. What they do when they make loans is to accept promissory notes in exchange for credits to the borrowers' transaction accounts."

–Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Modern Money Mechanics

"There are 12 Federal Reserve Banks in the USA: Boston, New York, Atlanta, Richmond, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis and San Francisco. These 12 banks are not government agencies. They are private corporations with private employees.

The Federal Reserve checks enter the banks as reserve deposits and become the monetary base for expanding the money supply by several times as bank deposits representing debt, loaned at usury into the private sector of the economy."

–Truth in Money by Theodore R. Thoren & Richard F. Warner

The Federal Reserve sends currency to the banks. They physically ship stacks of paper to put into public circulation. The banks lend it out at interest at a 10 to 1 ratio, known as Fractional Reserve Banking. They have 1 million dollars, and they claim to have 10 million on the books to lend out. Tax, inflate, rinse and repeat. (It may be 100 to 1 by now.)

Inflation is the hidden tax that nobody seems to notice. The wheel keeps grinding away the purchasing power of these dollars and more and more dollars need to be printed off to service a debt that can never be fully paid off. Oh, and when a massive problem arises for Banker Bob and he needs more trash cash, guess what? They just print off more notes. And everything magically gets better. They believe that if I'm OK, you're OK. Pure corruption; nothing but paper promises circling this planet.

Society is playing the dangerous game of musical chairs; where one day the lights come back on and many of us will not have those coveted seats. Our money is cotton-based currency. It is the ghost of money. Fiat currency is fake, it's the head of the snake. That really chaps my ass!

Since the inception of the Federal Reserve, the U.S. dollar has lost over 95% of its purchasing power. They want the concept of central banks enforced on a global level. Every single country has a central bank except North Korea.

"All problems, depressions, wars, disasters, assassinations-ALL of them were planned, caused, instigated and implemented by the International bankers and their attempt to establish a central bank in every country, which they have now done, thanks to corrupt politicians who have been bought and paid for." – Mary E. Croft

This level of corruption was evident in 1924.

"Capital must protect itself in every possible way, both by combination and legislation. Debts must be collected, mortgages foreclosed as rapidly as possible. Through the process of the law the common people lose their homes, they will become more docile and more easily governed through the strong arm of government applied by a central power of wealth under leading financiers.

These truths are well known among our principal men who are now engaged in forming an imperialism to govern the world. By dividing the voter through the political party system, we can get them to expand their energies in fighting for questions of no importance. It is thus by discreet action we can secure for ourselves that which has been so well planned and so successfully accomplished." – U.S. Bankers Association Magazine 1924

What a way to use mass manipulation mode. Curiosity and an open mind are the keys to confronting the true nature of our current paradigm. Without it, we are herded down the line straight for the slaughterhouse.

Wake up folks! EVERYTHING in our CULTure is a lie. We kill each other for PAPER! We must not be hosed down with fear in our current world- digital feudalism. We are living in a modern day Roman Empire-where all roads lead back to Rome.

We must push the pendulum back in our favor. Wake up to be the free sovereign that you were born to be or stay asleep with drugs, alcohol, entertainment and blatant ignorance for the rest of your days. If the public knew what was being orchestrated behind the scenes, the whole world would come to a grinding halt within hours.

"Give a robber a gun and he can rob a bank. Give a banker total control of the money supply and he can rob the world." - George Carlin

If you are a happy person, more money will allow you to spread positive ideas on the world.

If you are a miserable old liberal arts hack, more money will perpetuate your misery.

Historically, silver has been the best way of preserving wealth. Gold has been treasured while silver has been used, abused and trashed. Silver has over 10,000 uses, it's in your iPhone, iPad, all computers, deodorant, anti-freeze. It is one of the most prized commodities behind oil and hot young women. The U.S. government used to stockpile silver, but not anymore. Ever wonder why China, Russia and India buy so much gold and silver?

Discipline weighs ounces while regret weighs tons. Silver is not an investment; it is wealth insurance. It is the ultimate hedge towards inflation. Silver is mined as a by-product of lead, copper and zinc mines. It is even more scarce than we realize. Why was silver taken out of our money in the 1960's?

In 1964, the U.S. Mint started to take the silver coins out of circulation after the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The last wave was 90% silver dimes, quarters and half dollars (90% silver 10% copper). From 1965-1970, the U.S. Mint issued 40% silver half dollars. Ever since, we have been living on fiat papers and toy coins ever since.

Money isn't everything but it is the only thing that we keep track of. Poor people buy stuff, the middle class buy liabilities and the wealthy buy assets. The future will bring many surprises, that I will guarantee. I am not a registered financial advisor. The only "advice" that I can legally give out is to pay off your debts. When I was negotiating better rates and payback plans, I used to use this phrase, "Listen, I just want to dump trash cans full of money on you. Will you accept my money?" Silly but effective.

Fiat currency is what we have. Paper money is a currency that derives its value from the declaratory fiat or order of the government. All currencies fall into this category today. Only the government has "full" purchasing power of a dollar. To date, every single fiat currency has gone back to their core intrinsic value: zero.

Pull out a dollar bill. It will say: u*se for the payment of all debts, public and private.* The dollar was built on debt plus interest. Originally, it was used to say," payable to the bearer of the note on demand." Fast forward to 1971. President Nixon took the U.S. dollar off the gold standard. Historians refer to this as the Nixon Shock.

Afterwards, the dollar became the ghost of money. Even the grim reaper wouldn't use it to wipe his ass! Let's face the facts. The dollar was designed to fail. When you take out a loan, you literally create money out of thin air. You become the collateral. The elite use your debt obligation to back the money they create. This is why the debt will never be paid off. It if was paid, there would be no money left in the world.

Your debt becomes the principal for more debt. The interest just adds up. The Federal Reserve has steadily stepped up their printing presses to flood the market with dollars. This simple economic concept is why we are always in a war. Today we have huge growing wealth disparity, destruction of local companies, millions of anti-depressants, systemic unemployment and the breakup of the family (divorce + government checks pushing men out of the picture).

With eternal wars, the elite can keep taking peoples' liberties away. Today's money is just a representation of a debt obligation that appears after a loan is made. Since the Federal Reserve, was formed, the U.S. dollar has lost over 95% of its purchasing power. Real money has to be a portable way to store wealth. It must be tangible, fungible and non-perishable. Money also has to have lasting intrinsic value no matter what happens.

There is nothing wrong with fiat money as long as we are not forced to use it. People should be free to offer anything they want as money. You should be free to accept it or reject it. Under these conditions, fiat money would die.

It begs the question, "Why would anyone accept money that is not backed up anything except the promise of the issuer?" There is no such thing as an honorable government although there have been a few honorable people scattered in the masses. Governments deteriorate into criminal syndicates because of their mission. We need a protectorate, not a government. Fear and greed are the two most powerful motivators in human nature.

"Bankers own the earth. Take it away from them but leave the power to create money and control credit, and with the flick of a pen they will create enough to buy it back."

– Sir Josiah Stamp, former President, Bank of England

I see the elite as the greediest group of jerks ever: the club of Rome, the Royal Institute of International Affairs the politicians, central bankers, chief executives and associates, Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Trilateral Commission, the U. N., Council on Foreign Relations and the Federal Reserve.

You can find them at Bilderberg meetings, the World Economic Forum in Switzerland with Klaus Schwab and many more secretive meetings. Researchers have discovered that this group of organizations connect into the British-based secret society called The Round Table. These include the Bilderberg Group, the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Trilateral Commission, and the Club of Rome.

There are many more elite groups within its web, but these "Round Table" organizations are a key part of its day to day manipulation of politics, banking, business, the military (especially NATO), "education", and so on.

The Round Table was created in London in the latter years of the 19th century. Its first official "leader" was Cecil Rhodes, the man who mercilessly manipulated Southern Africa and took over their lands. Although, in theory, Africans are back in political control of Africa, the real decisions are still made by the European and American elites via their black puppet presidents and leaders. "Independence" is an illusion.

Rhodes played tribe against tribe until they destroyed each other in war, so allowing Rhodes and the British to take over. The same is happening today in the continuing wars in Africa, details of which you will find on this site. Rhodes said the goal of the Round Table was to create World Government controlled by Britain.

When he died in 1902, he left money in his will to fund "Rhodes Scholarships" in which overseas students had their expenses paid to study at Oxford University. The ratio of these "Rhodes Scholars" who go back to their countries to enter positions of political, economic, and media power is enormous compared with the general student population.

The most famous Rhodes Scholar in the world today is Bill Clinton, the two-term President of the United States. But while Rhodes was the official front man for the Round Table, the real controllers and funders were, and are, the House of Rothschild, the banking dynasty which is at the heart of so much of the global conspiracy. This is not an anti-Jewish remark because the Rothschilds claim to be Jewish.

The Rothschilds have manipulated Jewish people more than we can imagine!!

The inner elite of this Round Table in the US and UK were the key members of their government's war administrations before and during the First World War. Every war is funded on both sides by the crooked bankers.

Through their technique of problem, reaction, solution, they wanted to destroy the global status quo with war and therefore have the opportunity to re-draw the world in their agenda's image when the conflict was over. This is precisely what they did. Power in the world was in far fewer hands after the war than before, and this was advanced even further when they engineered the Second World War also.

In 1919, the Versailles Peace Conference was held in Paris. At the conference, the elite of the Round Table from Britain and the United States, people like Alfred Milner, Edward Mandel House, and Bernard Baruch, were appointed to represent their countries at the meetings which decided how the world would be changed as a result of the war these same people had created.

They decided to impose impossible reparations payments on Germany, to ensure the collapse of the post-war Weimar Republic amid unbelievable economic collapse and thus create the very circumstances that brought Hitler to power.

It was while in Paris that these Round Table members met at the Hotel Majestic to begin the process of creating the Bilderberg-CFR-RIIA-Trilateral Commission network. They also decided at Versailles that they know all supported the creation of a Jewish homeland in Palestine. Who do you think was making the decisions here?

As a result of their secret meetings at the Hotel Majestic, The Royal Institute of International Affairs was founded in London in 1920, the Council on Foreign Relations followed in 1921, and then came the Bilderberg Group (1954), the Club of Rome (1968), World Economic Forum (1971) and the Trilateral Commission (1973). These are dominated by the Rothschilds and Rockefellers.

These organizations have among their number the top people in global politics, business, banking, military, media, "education" and so forth. These are the channels through which the same global policies are coordinated outside of public knowledge through apparently unconnected countries, political parties, and institutions. The upper levels of secret societies include the Knights of Malta, and Freemasons among them.

Every major war since the French Revolution has been influenced by the globalist philosophy as a progression to forming a new world order. A one world government was the ultimate goal for the globalists. They originally wanted to fight religious teachings. This topic could easily fill up books so I will keep it brief. Past members: Karl Marx, Lenin, Hitler, Stalin, Albert Pike.

Let's shine the spotlight on two more groups. In 1954, the Bilderberg Group was founded by Prince Bernhard in Holland. The crazy part is that they were instrumental with the inception of the European Union. The group was mainly used to benefit its European members at the expense of regional sovereignty. Throughout the years, regional memberships have been extended to NATO members. Bilderberg meetings are held in luxury hotels once a year in Europe for three consecutive years. On the fourth year, meetings are held in the U.S. Over 100 people gather in total secrecy to discuss international affairs.

Another group to watch: The Trilateral Commission. The Trilateral Commission was founded in 1973 by David Rockefeller basically to launder money. The first meeting was held in Tokyo. From there, U.S. and European money was siphoned off into Asian industrialist and Arab oil magnets to buy up Western real estate and businesses. Again, a classic example of cause and effect. In 1973, the OPEC oil embargo is set up. As a result, gas prices soared. Americans then raced out to buy Japanese cars.

Donald Rumsfeld supplied the gas to use in the Kurdish genocide (Halabja 1988). Saddam's oil operations were seen as a threat to the U.S. petrodollar. Well, you see what happened to him. We took him out. Then we took out the CIA funded Bin Laden. We saw Gaddafi as a threat with gold and oil. He had to go too. This will knock your socks off. During 9/11, Tower 7 was armed with advanced military explosive thermite for a freefall collapse, floor by floor. You could hear almost a gunshot sound precisely timed. The alleged war on terror is a big hoax.

The Club of Rome has suggested that it would be fantastic if the world were split up into 10 kingdoms. Ever notice the European Union, the African Union, North American Union? Take a glance at your birth certificate. They are bonds. You are pledged as collateral on the debt of your nation. The Club of Rome is also responsible for creating the narrative of global warming which morphed into our modern day climate change.

I guess the biggest clue for pending destruction can be found on the back of the $1 bill. The eagle on the back was really supposed to be a phoenix, the sign of a rebirth. The 1980 cover of the Economist magazine was a phoenix with a gold coin stating 2018. Random coincidence? Old governments fall and then replaced by new ones. Our current system is defined by the pyramid on the left side of the dollar bill.

When you play by the globalist's rules, you fail. They have perpetuated a debt & death paradigm through fiat currency (paper money). The globalists don't care about our awareness campaigns, marches or protests. This only hacks at the branches. We need to hack at their roots. The globalists operate with a Hegelian Dialectic, developed by German philosopher, George Hegel.

First, they create a problem. Often, this is known as a false flag event (9/11 comes to mind). Then they control the reaction, like blaming an alleged enemy. Finally, they offer a solution such as regulations or a war. Nathan Rothschild helped socialist Karl Marx by funding his book, Das Kapital. So, if you are a socialist then your ideology was created by evil minds in the world. Be careful who you praise.

Think of the millions of people living on food stamps. How will they survive after an economic collapse? Food and fuel will be key. With homes, you pay property taxes, so you rent it from the local government. War is never justified. The planet does not need any War.

"Why should we hear about body bags and death…? It's not relevant. So why should I waste my beautiful mind on something like that?" – Barbara Bush

"Military men are dumb, stupid animals to be used as pawns for foreign policy."

– Henry Kissinger

The endless war on terror is a joke. It is a manufactured social narrative. When a nation is on the verge of a collapse, the government clamps down on its people and thus marches on a military rampage internationally. War is great for business since all other issues at the time are generally swept under the rug. We have been subjected to political propaganda from cradle to grave. Remember Weapons of Mass Destruction and men in the caves of Afghanistan? You know the ones that we funded in the 1980's to fight against Russia.

Essentially, we funded the problems in the Middle East. We bring the money; they bring the violence. With war, the criminal elite can confiscate the wealth of other nations and provide the context to create massive debt. The collapse will leave a generational scar where we may never consider fractional reserve banking in the new paradigm.

I want peace but I don't want to die for war. The U.S. is responsible for funding, manipulating and pushing for war at all angles throughout history. It is despicable. Let's drone strike the Middle East to kill their kids so we can save our kids. You probably have quite a bit in common with them; more than you even realize. Americans have been polarized with cultural wars:

-Rich vs. Poor

-Capitalist vs. Communists

-Individualist vs. Collectivist

-Caucasians vs. Africans

-Men vs. Women

-Single vs. Married

-Young vs. Old

Politicians use these cultural wars to drive wedges between us in order to exploit us for votes and resources. Divide and conquer. When cognitive dissonance and normalcy bias are the status quote, where does the truth enter? This paradigm is cancerous. We need to take out the cancer.

We are socially conditioned with distractions: television programming, shitty food, sports, celebrity worship, wars. Don't talk about the real issues. They want us to grow our entitlement mentality so that we will fall right into their hands. The sheeple cannot hear the truth. It must be realized firsthand.

There are three corporations that control most of the world's wealth:

Washington D.C. – military control

London- monetary control

Vatican- religious control

Combined they pull the strings of the judicial system, schools, the food supply, foreign policies and the mockingbird media. It is optimal for the elite to divide us up and conquer the world. The mathematical end of the debt based dollar is at the core of the criminal elite's power. They must install a new monetary paradigm after the world's wealth is wiped out. As a result, they will continue to have an unlimited checkbook of debt money (full spectrum dominance).

The Anti-Hegemonic power of China, Russia, Iran, Venezuela and other non-Anglo American powers pose a threat to the current world order. It is very possible that a new war is coming. We would need an enemy, like China or Russia, to justify our hungry war machine.

Truth is the greatest enemy of the state, and nothing would undercut the elite's plans as a wide awake populace. Look at the American wars: Civil war, revolutionary war and WWII. Usually, every 80 years there is a paradigm shift. Apparently, history can and will repeat.

Take steps to prepare for the conscious awakening of humanity. Store up resources to restore your level of confidence. Fear mongers want wild reactions. Enlightened ambition is a better perspective. War is a very lucrative operation. Besides weapons, the bankers who finance the war rack in huge profits.

We are living in a consumer-driven economy. We just consume all day long. Fat wallet full of credit cards, fat bellies and fat egos. It is extremely ridiculous that 1 in 6 Americans are on food stamps. U. S. Manufacturing has been gutted and sold overseas years ago. It has largely been replaced with tech and service industries.

After Israel and the U.S. failed to provoke Iran, we took down Gaddifi in Libya. Their gold and oil was looted. Then we armed the Syrian rebels. We funded ISIS. They just made it up with CRISIS actors. Look at the way that man has domesticated the horse. This is the same way the globalists have enslaved humanity.

War is terrorism with a bigger budget. We need to ask ourselves why we do things not how to technically do things. Why do we need to impose our beliefs on other nations? Realize that the military industrial complex is a bloated, parasitic bureaucracy. The men and women out there do not realize who they are fighting for: the crooked clowns in office who don't want to work a hard job. Politicians are essentially failed HR ladies and failed liberal arts hacks who are just mailing it in.

They don't care about us. I figured this out. That's why I left the military. Once you know truth that the military is used as pawn to vacuum up resources for the crooks, game over. I am out. People try to repeatedly argue with me but save your breath. It's time to face the facts. Humans should not be viewed as stupid and greedy. Together we can build a healthy world based on integrity, freedom, liberty and compassion. A world where we can all thrive. Abundance, not scarcity, is the natural state of the universe. If we pull the plug of support, the elite's plans will fall apart. Sunshine is the best disinfectant.

The Law of Money

The Law of Money, Maritime Admiralty Law, dates back to the Land of Canaan with the Phoenicians. They were sophisticated merchant bankers from 1500-300 B.C. They are also credited with the creation of the alphabet with some help from the Greeks. The Phoenicians dominated the high seas of the Mediterranean with their business ventures.

On the Earth, we have land, and we have water.

Therefore, we have the two laws: the law of the land and the law of the sea.

When your mother was in labor, she in the hospital with the doctor. Her water broke. You came down her birth canal. She delivered you into this land. Your birth certificate was signed by the doctor. For the seas, all ships are female. The ships pulls into the dock. Each item on that ship has to have a certificate of manifest. What about the banks? Many banks limit your ATM withdrawals to $500 and counter withdrawals $2,000. The word bank is short for the riverbank.

The riverbank directs the flow of the current sea (currency). There is a cashflow, also known as the liquid assets. If you are late on a bill, they say you are in hot water or rather you may be drowning in debt. It's all business. When we think of dollars, there are ones, fives, tens, twenties, fifties and hundreds. Religion is a product of the Law of Money. They also come in thousands of denominations.

Let's not forget about the beginning of America. England knew that America would be a huge threat if they had debt-free money and a growing economy. Ben Franklin was asked by the Bank of England, "How did the colonies grow so fast?"

"That's simple. In the colonies, we issue our own money-Colonial Scrip. We issue it in proper proportion to the demands of trade and industry to make the products pass easily from producer to the consumers. In this manner, creating for us our own paper money, we control its purchasing power, and we have no interest to pay no one." – Ben Franklin

Parliament passed the Currency Act of 1764 which demanded the colonies to stop issuing their scrip and pay them taxes in gold and silver. Those arrogant pricks. This forced the colonies to go on a gold and silver standard instead of their debt-free fiat money.

"In one year, economic conditions were so reversed that the era of prosperity ended. A depression set in, to such an extent that the streets of the colonies were filled with the unemployed.

The Colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters had it not been that England took away from the colonies their money, which created unemployment and dissatisfaction. The inability of the colonists to get power to issue their own money permanently out of the hands of King George and the International bankers was the prime reason for the Revolutionary War." – Ben Franklin

Once the revolution started, the colonies were drained of their hard currencies. They had to use their last resort-a fiat currency known as the Continental. Once a fiat currency backs a war, inflation will soon follow. The inflation compounded because the British blatantly counterfeited the Continental to debase their enemy's currency.

Once the Americans won their independence, they became desperate for money once again. Congress gave the power to issue the currency to the first private central bank in the U.S. In 1781, the Bank of North America implemented fractional reserve banking, the same financial policy of the Bank of England. The bank depreciated the currency, and it collapsed in 4 years. Alexander Hamilton, a European banking agent who was behind the first central bank, pushed legislation to get another central bank started known as the First Bank of the U.S.

During the Constitutional Convention, James Madison & Thomas Jefferson had major concerns about central banks.

"If the American people ever allow the banks to control the issuance of their currency, first by inflation, and then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property, until their children wake up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered." – Thomas Jefferson

Gouverneur Morris was one of the founders of the Bank of North America. He wrote to James Madison years later on the true motivation behind central banks.

"The rich will strive to establish their dominion and enslave the rest. They always did. They always will. They will have the same effect here as elsewhere, if we do not, by the power of government, keep them in their proper spaces." – Gouverneur Morris

Alexander Hamilton was victorious with opening the second central bank in 1790 known as the First Bank of the U.S.

They were granted a twenty year charter as a way to "stabilize" the monetary system. Also in 1790, Amschel Rothschild said, "Permit me to issue and control the money of a nation, and I care not who makes it's laws."

Just imagine a world where the issuing power of money was in the hands of the common people.

"I sincerely believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the people to whom it properly belongs." – Thomas Jefferson

In 1811, a bill came to Congress to not renew the charter for the First Bank of the U.S. The press called the bank a "great swindle." The bank lost the battle and closed down a few months later. Then we had the War of 1812. Real estate collapsed and many jobs were lost. Fast forward to 1816, one year after the Battle of Waterloo, another bill came to Congress to open another central bank, the Second Bank of the U.S. The bill passed and no one knew about the real stockholders. In 1817, the Second Bank of the U.S. and Congress gave up constitutional power to coin and regulate money.

In 1828, Andrew Jackson came to power in the U.S. In his first term, President Jackson fired 20% of the federal government. The Second Bank of the U.S. pushed for an early renewal of their charter. Congress allowed the renewal to pass. This bill was sent to the President for the final approval. Jackson vetoed the bill. The President obviously had his concerns for the nation's future with central banks.

"Controlling our currency, receiving our public monies, and holding thousands of our citizens in dependence….would be more formidable and dangerous than a military power of the enemy. If government would confine itself to equal protection, and as heaven does its rains, shower it favor alike on the high and the low, the rich and the poor, it would be an unqualified blessing. In the act before me, there seems to be a wide and unnecessary departure from these just principles." – Andrew Jackson

President Jackson was running for his second term despite the banker's tremendous support (over $3 million) of his opponent, Henry Clay.

Jackson was the first President to go on a nationwide campaign to take his message directly to the people. His message was "Jackson & No Bank." Jackson won a second term. After re-election in 1833, Jackson started removing government money from the Rothschild's Second Bank of the U.S. Unfortunately, Secretary of the Treasury Louis McLane refused to remove funds from the central bank. McLane was fired. Jackson appointed William Duane to fill the job. Duane also refused the President's orders. Duane was also fired. Jackson appointed Roger Tany. Finally, government money was removed from the Second Bank of the U.S.

Nicholas Biddle was the Rothschild's front man at the Second Bank of the U.S. Biddle bragged that if his demands were not met, he would use the bank to spark an economic depression. The bank contracted the money supply by calling in enormous amounts of loans and rejected new credit until an economic depression set in. Jackson was blamed for the depression. However, Jackson merely transferred money into non-Rothschild banks.

"Gentlemen, I've been watching you for a long time, and I'm convinced that you have used funds of the bank to speculate in the breadstuffs of the country. When you won, you divided the profits, and when you lost, you charged it to the bank. You tell me that if I take the bank deposits and annul its charter, I shall ruin thousands of families. That may be true, gentlemen, but that is your sin! Should I let you go on, you will ruin 50,000 families, and that would be my sin! You are a den of thieves, vipers, and I intend to rout you out, and by the Eternal God, I will rout you out!" – Andrew Jackson

In January 1834, Congress cut the charter for the Second Bank of the U.S. Biddle refused to open up the bank's financial books and he also refused to testify at Congressional hearings. In 1835, President Jackson paid the final payment of the National Debt. He was the only President in U.S. history to pay off the National Debt. He allowed the banks to issue currency from debt-free government bonds.

Later that month, Richard Lawrence attempted to assassinate President Jackson. He failed. Both of his guns misfired, and Jackson ran over to beat him violently with his cane! Lawrence got off by using the classic "insanity" plea deal. He bragged that powerful people, the Rothschilds, hired him to take out Jackson. President Jackson's biggest accomplishment was killing the central bank. Once year later, Nathan Rothschild died of hemorrhoids. Maybe there is real justice in this world…

The bankers went on a new mission to retake control over America. They created money panics of 1811, 1833 and 1837-1844. However, Jackson shattered their monetary monopoly. The bankers went back to starting wars to create debt.

"I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country; corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption in High Places will follow, and the Money Power of the Country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until the wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the Republic is destroyed." – Abraham Lincoln

The Civil War had little to do with slavery. The South became rich from a commodity boom fueled by cheap slave labor. Northern banks wanted to reclaim their declining profits. Southerners saw rising profits by using cheaper foreign produced goods.

Northern banks pulled political strings to pass legislation to slap hefty tariffs on imported goods. Their plan was to cut off imported goods and have Southerners buy northern goods. The Europeans also slapped tariffs on imported goods from the southern U.S.

This crushed the Southern economy from rising expenses for imported goods and failing prices on their exported goods. President Lincoln went to the bankers to get loans to fund the war. The bankers offered up a loan to fund the war set at 20-30% interest. Lincoln declined their offer.

Colonel Richard Taylor gave Lincoln some war advice:

"Why Lincoln, that is easy. Just get Congress to pass a bill authorizing the printing of full legal to pass a bill authorizing the printing of full legal tender treasury notes and pay your soldiers with them and go ahead and win your war with them also." – Colonel Taylor

Lincoln asked if the Americans would accept this paper money.

"The people or anyone else will not have any choice in the matter if you make them full legal tender. They will have the full sanction of the government and be just as good as any money; as Congress is given that express right by the Constitution." – Colonel Taylor

From 1862-1863, Lincoln printed millions of fancy legal tenders known as greenbacks. These notes were used as money and cost the government and people no interest for using the money. When fractional reserve banking and interest are attached to money, it corrupts the money and poisons the well of the nation. This leaves the bankers to scoop up massive profits off the backs of people's labor.

"If this mischievous financial policy, with its origin in North America, shall become indurated down to a fixture, then that government will furnish its own money without cost. It will pay off the debts and be without doubts. It will have all the money necessary to carry on its commerce. It will become prosperous without precedent in the history of the world.

The brains and wealth of all countries will go to North America. That country must be destroyed, or it will destroy every monarchy on the globe!" – Times of New London 1862

Unfortunately, Lincoln caved to the banker's demands to fund the Civil War. In 1863, Lincoln signed the Nation Bank Act which gave the banks the power to earn tax-free money from monetizing government bonds.

"The money powers prey upon the nation in times of peace and conspire against it in times of adversity. The banking powers are more despotic than a monarchy, more insolent than autocracy, more selfish than bureaucracy. They denounce as public enemies all who question their methods or throw light upon their crimes. I have two great enemies, the Southern Army in front of me and the bankers in the rear. Of the two, the one at my rear is my greatest foe."

– Abraham Lincoln

Lincoln was assassinated by John Wilkes Booth right after giving this speech.

In 1866, Congress passed the Contraction Act to remove greenbacks from circulation. After the Civil War, the bankers took 70% of the money out of circulation by calling outstanding loans and halting any new loans.

The bankers made big money from the deflation. When the bankers contracted the money supply, the loan payments grew in purchasing power which helped the bankers buy up even more income-producing assets. The bankers had a monopoly on gold and unlimited cash. Now they came for silver. Throughout history, silver is 15 times more plentiful than gold and much harder to monopolize.

After Lincoln's assassination, silver was demonetized in the Crime of 1873. Basically, removing silver as a lawful form of payment for loans and taxes. People were forced to dump silver and buy gold. The bankers were in control of all the debts that had to be repaid. The government even gave away 200 million acres of farmland to railway corporations. The farmers were crushed nationwide. James Garfield became the President in 1880.

"By the experience of commercial nations in all ages it has been found that gold and silver afford the only safe foundation for a monetary system. Confusion has recently been created by variations in the relative value of the two metals, but I confidently believe that arrangements can be made between the leading commercial nations which will secure the general use of both metals.

Whoever controls the volume of money in any country is absolute master of all industry and commerce…and when you realize that the entire system is very easily controlled, one way or another, by a few powerful men at the top, you will not have to be told how periods of inflation and depression originate." – President James Garfield

Not surprisingly, President James Garfield was assassinated after this message. Hopefully, you see a scary pattern emerging. Do you need even more proof of the banker's influence on every part of our lives?

This is an excerpt of a memo from the American Bankers Association in 1891 where they bragged to all banks that their goal was to create an economic depression in 3 years:

"On Sept. 1st, 1894, we will not renew our loans under any consideration. On Sept. 1, we will demand our money. We will foreclosure and become mortgagees in possession. We can take two-thirds of the farms west of the Mississippi, and thousands of farms east of the Mississippi as well, at our own price…then the farmers will become tenants as in England."

This memo was verified by Congress in 1913 when it was quoted in opposition to the proposed Federal Reserve Act. The Boom Bust cycle is simply the bankers expanding and contracting the money supply. This helps them gain more assets with the intent to strengthen their control. The bankers have four goals for a financial panic:

1. In the early 20th century, the banks took 500 million silver dollars out of circulation and replaced them with Federal Reserve Notes.

2. Withdraw all Greenbacks and Treasury Notes of 1890.
3. The bankers wrecked the stock of railway companies which controlled the nation's transportation.
4. Then the bankers show Congress and the general public that they are the real owners of this country.

"Money is the most important subject intellectual persons can investigate and reflect upon. It is so important that our present civilization may collapse unless it is widely understood, and its defects remedied very soon." – Robert H. Hemphill, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta

Money has several key features:

-it must be durable

-portable

-not easily counterfeited

-divisible without destroying value

-relative scarcity

Since gold and silver is considered to be "good money," what makes "bad money" hold its value? Legal tender laws. When a government declares that all transactions and debts have to be conducted in their own currency it forces people to work for and use the paper money (Federal Reserve Notes). Your taxes must be paid with the "bad money." If you don't pay your taxes, the wrath of the government showers all over your world. What makes the U.S. dollar so special?

Petro Dollars

-The dollar is backed by the full faith of the U.S. government. The dollar is supported by the ability to extract taxes from citizens.

-The taxes are paid by the ability for its citizens to consume enormous amounts of oil.

-The Oil is transacted only in dollars in Anglo American markets.

-The fact that the oil is only available in dollars gives strong support for the dollar and a big advantage of the U.S. over its competitors.

-Oil profits are recycled into Anglo American financial institutions providing capital and lower interest rates.

-The U.S. has the backing of its military to enforce its agenda. Remember, the vast majority of its 700+ military bases are within vital oil pipeline countries.

Fractional Reserve Banking is the current system where the bank has to have 1%-20% real money backing the loans. Governments back up individual banks with a central bank to act as the lender of last resort. They issue fiat money to run the whole system. Money is not created by the government. It is created by privately owned banks. Banks do not loan money that is deposited by common people (even though we are led to believe in blatant lies). The banks tell us that grandma deposits $10,000 at the bank. She is paid 3% and the bank loans the money to her grandson at 6% and the bank makes a 3% spread.

The Federal Reserve buy $1 billion of U.S. bonds turn into $10 billion in bank deposits. The Fed creates 10% of the money and the other smaller private banks create the rest which is loaned to the public. When the Fed wants to contract the money supply, it simply sells the bonds it owns, and the money supply shrinks by 10 times the sale.

Imagine that someone wants to buy a car for $10,000. He goes to the bank for a loan. In order for a loan to be written for $10,000, the bank must have $1,111 on deposit (usually they get this money from you) at a central bank to fulfill its 9:1 Fractional Reserve Ratio.

The other $8,889 is created out of thin air.

There is a natural limit to physical assets. Therefore, there SHOULD be a natural limit on banks and governments. In this system, there is no limit on the amount of money or debt that the system can create. This is why EVERYONE is buried in debt. In our system, money is debt. When debt is created, money is created. When debt is repaid, money is destroyed.

The only way our economy functions is through the constant expansion of credit. Banks only create money for the principal of the loan. Where does the money come from to pay the interest? The only place to get the principal and interest is from the economy. If all money was brought in the same way, then everyone is fighting to get enough out of the economy to pay the principal and interest. It is impossible for someone to pay off all of the principal and interest because the interest money does not exist.

The only way for this system to function is that more debt (principal) needs to be created every year in excess of the principal and interest of the previous year. This includes state debt, local city debt, personal debt, corporate debt and federal debt.

Why would governments borrow money at interest when they could just print it themselves? Why not use a money system that does not require the constant increase in debt? A pure fiat-based system or a commodity-based system would be a better option for everyone.

This would not serve the elite's agenda. Usury has always been the tool of the elite to abuse the masses. Profit without labor, no different than slavery. In 325, the First Council of Nicaea forbid clergy from engaging in usury.

In 1311, Pope Clement V declared usury a heresy and abolished all secular legislation which allowed it. In 1586, Pope Sixtus V condemned usury. In 1745, Pope Benedict XIV forbid usury. St. Thomas Aquinas said usury was wrong because it amounted to double charging for the same product. The Catholic Church found another way to garner power and money.

Do you know why Catholic priests were not allowed to marry? Most of the apostles, popes and priests were married until the Church forbade it. They did this for economic and political reasons.

The Catholic Church was losing power to local priests and archbishops since land was donated to local churches. They would train their sons in the profession and pass the estates to them. The elite in Rome figured if priests were not allowed to marry, they would then take a vow of poverty and all property would pass to the Holy See in Rome.

Government is complicit in this counterfeiting system.

-They create the legal tender laws.

-They charter and regulate the banks.

-They use the courts to enforce debts.

-They collect taxes using only the legal tender.

-They NEVER educate the public on money.

Legal Tender Laws protect the value of the fiat money by making it illegal to not accept it in debt repayment. It also forbids competing currencies. The government benefits from this system because they are never short of money to buy more power. Money has transformed from value (silver, gold) to debt (Federal Reserve Notes).

Capitalism

"Capitalism is a social system based on recognition of individual rights, including property rights, in which all property is privately owned." – Ayn Rand

Capitalism was a word created by the scummy Karl Marx in his effort to destroy private property and free markets. Capitalism is the free trade of goods and services, and the net effect of the trade is naturally advantageous.

Capitalism relies on the division of labor, social cooperation and free exchange. Division of labor is natural since we all have different talents and ambitions. Collectivist systems seek to put us all in one box. Social cooperation ensures that the most honest and best performers are rewarded. Free exchange rewards all participants based off of providing value for the customer and profit for the seller. We vote with our dollars.

Private property provides a powerful incentive for stewardship of property. Owners usually take better care of their property than renters. Private property is a great force of balance in society, since one person will compete with millions of others. Private property allows you to profit off of your efforts, preserves resources and actually protects the environment.

Capitalism has a secret weapon, failure. If you fail, you have no one else to blame but yourself. If you learn from your mistake, you can profit off of your experience. If you live an immoral lifestyle, "karma" will catch up to you eventually.

Free market capitalism is very different from state capitalism where the state seeks to control the markets but allow free exchange of goods and services. They rig the markets through fiscal and monetary policies, rules and regulations, government run industries and protectionism.

When taken to the extreme, it can turn into a fascist market. Politicians blame capitalism for the sins of their collectivist system's failure. Collectivism is the central planning of the elite to run economies and nations. Utopian societies are dream worlds sold to the public for the benefit for the elite. These plans and programs are made to waste money, strip away rights and enrich the insiders. Their answer for collectivist failure is even more collectivism.

"Democracy and socialism have nothing in common but one word, equality. But notice the difference: while democracy seeks equality in liberty, socialism seeks equality in restraint and servitude." – Alexis de Tocquesville, former Ministry for Europe & Foreign Affairs

Collectivism kills. From Rome to the Berlin Wall falling, over 120 million people have been murdered or starved to death under collectivism. Billions have been enslaved and never allowed to reach their full potential. Religious people are persecuted for not believing in the state religion. For example, look at the damage done by the Chinese Communist Party.

I am sure that many people are on their payrolls.

Capitalism saved the pilgrims after their utopian system collapsed. They allowed the division of labor and the free riders found that they were the only ones suffering if they did not work. Capitalism saved the colonists from the collectivist system of the sleazy British Aristocracy. No taxation without representation. Capitalism saved America from the Great Depression.

After years of Roosevelt pushing his socialist nightmare agenda, he was forced to come to the table with industry at the beginning of the war. Many of his destructive policies were reversed since they restrained the economy. Capitalism created the Middle Class. Henry Ford paid the highest wages (HR ladies take notes) to produce the cheapest cars and he revolutionized the car industry which brough vast economic freedom nationwide.

Free market capitalism would allow responsible banks to use honest money and to operate independently from reckless too big to fail banks. A central bank hurts honest banks by taking from those who preserved their capital and bailing out reckless banks through excessive money printing. Only those choosing to engage in reckless behavior would get hurt in a truly free market. Unfortunately, under our current system, everyone suffers.

Profits are privatized while losses are socialized.

Keynesian economics is the economic system for the elite. It gives academic credibility to centralized banking, government interference in the market, deficit spending, military spending and inflation. The two major levers of power for Keynesian economics: monetary policy (Federal Reserve manipulating interest rates) and fiscal policy (Congressional spending).

Keynes theorized that depressions could be ended by central banks lowering interest rates and the government deficit spending to "stimulate" the economy. This process leads to the boom bust bubble cycle. Keynes sure was a conspiracy theorist. He was just another weak, pathetic academic who couldn't fight his way out of a wet paper bag.

"The boom can last only as long as the credit expansion progresses at an ever-accelerated pace. The credit expansion boom is built on the sands of banknotes and deposits. It must collapse.

There is no means of avoiding the final collapse of a boom brought about by credit expansion. The alternative is only whether the crisis should come sooner as the result of voluntary abandonment of further credit expansion or later as the final and total catastrophe of the currency involved." - Ludwig von Mises, Austrian economist

Austrian economics emphasizes the spontaneous organizing power of the price mechanism. They feel that it's impossible to regulate the economic activity and any regulation creates the boom bust business cycle. If the market were left alone, the market would naturally set the price and act as a self-regulator on the economy. This pricing mechanism leads to a constantly balancing equilibrium that provides fertile ground to operate with the secure knowledge of a stable business environment. The Austrians focus on real world human action and Keynesians focus on theoretical human actions since they are academic clowns who never work real jobs.

"Before 1933, the people themselves had an effective way to demand economy. Before 1933, whenever the people became disturbed over Federal Spending, they could redeem their paper currency in gold and wait for common sense to return to Washington."
– Congressman Howard Buffett

Consumerism

"Our enormously productive economy demands that we make consumption our way of life, that we convert the buying and use of goods into rituals, that we seek our spiritual satisfaction, our ego satisfaction, in consumption. We need things consumed, burned up, replace and discarded at an ever-accelerating pace."

– Victor LeBeau

Our government was originally purposed with protecting the individual people from the powerful interests. Now these interests have total control over the government, and they create legislation that benefits the special interests instead of the common interest. Shopping has been institutionalized. The concept of being addicted to shopping, especially for women, has been branded into their subconscious.

Extraction

Our imperial foreign policy benefits corporate interests to extract and pollute other nations. This is theft. The U.S. is consuming over 30% of the world's resources. This exponential growth in consumption will hit the wall since this is a finite planet.

Production

All of these resources are mixed with toxins to create finished products and use more and more energy. The dirtiest production is shipped overseas where the workers are exposed to high levels of toxins where there is no legal recourse.

Distribution

This externalizes the cost of goods. We do not pay the actual cost of the goods that we buy from retail stores. When the resources are stolen from other nations, they pick up part of the cost. When pollution is dumped into other nations, they bear the cost.

We pay the cost through less well-paying jobs since we destroy other economies when illegal immigrants come here. This leads to more competition, lower wages and increasing social costs.

After 9/11, the message was go out and shop. The advertisers knew that consumer debt is what the country runs on since 2/3 of the economy is consumer-driven. This will not last. Guess how much of the stuff you buy is still in use 6 months after you buy it? 50%? 25%? Try 3%!

Planned Obsolescence

The vast majority of the goods we buy are designed to break. Designers in the 1950's studied how fast they could have stuff break and still leave the customer with the feeling of confidence to buy the replacement product to keep up with the latest trends.

Perceived Obsolescence

Fashion and style of the products change so it is obvious to others that you have not bought new stuff and are look down upon. Advertising shapes the way we think and shop. We are bombarded with thousands of ads every day that tells us how we think and structure our value systems. Ads are designed to make you unhappy with what you have and buy happiness with the new product.

Our happiness is declining the more stuff we have. We work a job that we don't enjoy, and we are depressed. Currently, 8 out of 10 people don't enjoy the J.O.B. We watch TV which programs us to buy all these products to feel better. We go into debt to buy products that we don't need. Consumerism won't make us happy. It enables debt creation, wastes our time and ensures an economic collapse.

Disposal

We store and pack our living rooms to the max collecting all of this stuff. This leads to bigger houses and cars, which uses even more stuff. Then we store all of this extra stuff in storage units. Then we try to sell our extra stuff at a garage sale for a fraction of the original price. Then we throw it away. The average American family produces 5 lb. of garbage each day. For every can of garbage, you produce on the street, 70 garbage cans of waste was used in the extraction, production, distribution, consumption and disposal of those products. This garbage inevitably pollutes the land, air and water. And for what? A meaningless existence consuming, working and consuming.

Endowment Effect

Our stuff provides an emotional value which is higher than the real value. We fall in love with what we have. Trail offers get us hooked on the ownership (90 day money back guarantees, etc.). We naturally focus on what we might lose rather than on what we might gain.

Ways to Spend Money

With free market capitalism, you spend your money on yourself. You are very careful with your capital and direct it towards the best value. With charity, you spend your money on others. You take care not to spend too much and care much less on the satisfaction of the recipient.

With corporatism (your boss's credit card) you spend someone else's money on yourself. You don't care too much about how much you spend but you do care about what you get. With government programs, you spend someone else's money on others. You don't care how much you spend or what others get.

Class Warfare

The lower class is taught in school to get a Just Over Broke (JOB) and pay those lousy bills. Financial advisors tell the middle class to diversify and invest for the long term. Financial education is just a fancy sales pitch. This is similar to asking a used car salesman what to buy. A good one will tell you to buy more in case one car breaks down.

If you do talk to a financial advisor, give them all of the information that you have and let them come back with a solid plan. Then ask to see their commission plan. This was my experience when I first started to invest in the stock market in college. I went with Edward Jones. I was inundated with an endless stream of stock picks. I took my money and ran!

If the advisor refuses to disclose their commission plan, ask him why since you showed all of your cards. Ask him specifically why an annuity over an oil trust, term vs. whole life insurance, etc. The answer is usually about how his company can make the biggest profit.

The rich are taught not to get a JOB. They are taught to buy assets that throw off passive income and have the assets pay their expenses (spend the interest, not the principal). Passive income generating assets include a profitable business, dividend stocks, rental income, book royalties and interest bearing loans.

Do you want to know why the rich get richer and the poor get poorer?

The lower and middle classes earn money, get taxed and then spends money on their expenses. The upper class earns money, spends money and then get taxed. This process greatly reduces their taxable income and increases their purchasing power.

If you buy a computer for $1,000, it really cost you $1,333 if you are taxed at 25% income tax rate. The rich buy the computer before taxes for $1,000 it puts them in a lower tax bracket. If you had a business, you could become a consultant in your current field where you can write off pre-tax start-up expenses, computers, auto expenses, medical expenses, office furniture, work dinners, etc. This reduces your overall income to then get taxed by the government.

The value of any paper asset lies in the assumption that the other entity involved in the paper promise will hold up their end of the bargain. Renters will pay the rent on your real estate The car manufacturer won't take your franchise. The company won't go bankrupt rendering your stock worthless. A government is not going to default on their bonds.

Give it enough time and the government will be coming for your precious retirement money. They will seize the value of your assets or convert your stocks into government bonds for your security. Goods are wealth, money is a future claim on wealth. If you don't hold it, you don't own it.

Modern Control

In the early 1900's the Rothschilds controlled half of the world's wealth. They put in quite a bit of effort to convince the public that their power was growing into the 20th century. The House of Rothschild expanded their empire secretly through the use of banks and agents. Their central banks controlled the currencies throughout most of the Western Hemisphere.

They took control of the railroads in America. They controlled the diamond market through Cecil Rhodes and made huge ventures in the Russian and Arab oil exploration. They control the Vatican's finances. The Rothschilds have had huge success financing and controlling powerful men (Harrimans, Rockefellers, Vanderbilts and Carnegies) to advance their agenda.

Theodore Roosevelt fought against these monopolies. However, his efforts didn't away their power. When he "broke up" Standard Oil, he increased the power of the Rockefellers by making each part worth more than the whole company. After Roosevelt's re-election, JP Morgan started to call in loans from smaller banks. This led to a sharp contraction in the money supply which resulted in people selling stocks to raise cash.

The Panic of 1907 started. Bank runs became rampant since the banks had very little cash reserves. JP Morgan pledged to support the American economy with money created out of thin air. His plan, approved by Congress, was to create $200 million out of nowhere to prop up his banks. Morgan bought up banks and real estate to consolidate more power. By 1908, Morgan "saved" the economy. This financial episode led to the creation of the Federal Reserve. On June 16, 1909, President Taft, in an address to Congress, proposed a 2% federal income tax on corporations as an excise tax and a constitutional amendment to allow the previously enacted income tax.

This was sold to the public as only a tax on the rich. The income tax was crucial for funding the government debt expansion. The interest on the taxes had to be guaranteed by the taxes on the people. The income and corporate tax were found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court TWICE and yet we are stuck with this financial burden. Do you actually believe all of our tax dollars go to fix roads and bridges? If they want to "make money" quickly, they can just turn on their printing presses. The 16th Amendment took 4 years for all 50 states to ratify it. Senator Aldrich pushed the income tax through on Feb. 3, 1913.

President Theodore Roosevelt established a Monetary Commission led by Senator Nelson Aldrich. He had ties to both J. P. Morgan and Rockefellers through marriage. Sen. Aldrich spent months touring Europe's (Rothschild's) central banks. Upon his return, he met with several men on Jekyll Island to plot the return of the privately owned central bank in the U.S.

Paul Warburg sent $500,000 by Kuhn Loeb & Company to lobby Congress for a privately owned central bank. His partner, Jacob Schiff, was close to the Rothschild family and financially backing the overthrow of the Russian empire. The Schiffs, Warburgs, and Rothschilds were all intermarried and close business partners.

These families saw economic and political power shifting power from East to West. There was competition from smaller banks able to fund their enterprises from profits as opposed to their debt. People were accustomed to saving their money and shunning debt. These families went out of their way to privatize the profits and socialize the losses. The bankers plotted their private central bank on Jekyll Island.

"Banking was conceived in iniquity and was born in sin. The bankers own the earth. Take it away from them, but leave them the power to create deposits, and with the flick of a pen they will create enough deposits to buy it back again.

However, take it away from them, and all the great fortunes like mine will disappear and they ought to disappear, for this would be a happier and better world to live in. But, if you wish to remain the slaves of bankers and pay the cost of your own slavery, let them continue to create deposits." – Sir Josiah Stamp (Director of the Bank of England)

"To cause high prices, all the Federal Reserve Board will do will be to lower the rediscount rate…producing an expansion of credit and a rising stock market; then when businessmen are adjusted to these conditions, it can check prosperity in mid-career by arbitrarily raising the rate of interest.

It can cause the pendulum of a rising and falling market to swing gently back and forth by slight changes in the discount rate or cause violent fluctuations by a greater rate variation and in either case it will possess inside information as to financial conditions and advance knowledge of the coming change, either up or down. This is the strangest, most dangerous advantage ever placed in the hands of special privilege class by any government that ever existed. The system is private, conducted for the sole purpose of obtaining the greatest possible profits from the use of other people's money.

They know in advance when to create panics to their advantage, they also know when to stop panic. Inflation and deflation work equally well for them when they control finance."
– Rep. Charles Lindbergh

"In the U.S. today we have in effect the governments, we have the duly constituted government, then we have an independent, uncontrolled and uncoordinated government in the Federal Reserve System, operating the money powers which are reserved to Congress by the Constitution."- Rep. Wright Patman

Modern war is enabled by modern banking. Nothing creates debt better than war. World War 1 created the most debt ever. The Rothschilds in Frankfurt lent money to Germany. The Rothschilds in London lent money to England. The Rothschilds in Vienna lent money to Austria. The Rothschilds in Paris lent money to France. J.P. Morgan was the largest consumer on earth spending over $10 million per day.

WWI was horrible. Basically, all wars throughout could have been prevented. Too many people died. Let's not forget the Spanish Influenza of 1918. It was caused by the 1st nationwide vaccine campaign on returning WWI veterans. More veterans died from the shots than enemy bullets. Military hospitals were filled to capacity. They decided to call it Spanish Flu to cover up its American roots. 20 million people died.

At the end of the war, the allies crippled the Germans with the Treaty of Versailles. Britain and the allies owed the U.S. $12.5 billion. Germany paid $33 billion in war reparations or face invasion. Germany was stripped of all her foreign assets.

The debt repayment by pillaging Germany fueled the Roaring 20's which led to the Great Depression. Germany reverted to currency printing which led to hyperinflation. The German government encouraged their citizens to not work to deter allied occupation.

In July 1922, $1 US = 493 Marks.

In December 1922, $1 US = 7,952 Marks.

In January 1923, $1 US = 18,000 Marks.

In November 1923, $1 US = 4.2 Trillion Marks.

Entire pensions were valued by a loaf of bread.

With the major powers of Europe under control, the bankers moved towards world domination. They created the League of Nations as a form of international government. It failed. Once the war ended, it was necessary to inflate the money supply to pay for the debt and interest. This created the Roaring 20's.

Twelve years of Republican presidents who were against the globalist agenda created an age of prosperity with LOWER TAXES. In the 20's, debt was piled on without worry and speculation was common. The Fed increased the money supply by 60%. Paul Warburg made the call to shut it down.

Warburg warned J.P. Morgan, Joe F. Kennedy, J.D. Rockefeller, and Bernard Baruch, to get out of stocks and put their money into gold before the crash. On Oct. 24th, 1929, the Fed called in their broker loans meaning that brokers and customers had to sell their stock to pay back the loans. This caused a wave of selling.

"We have gold, because we cannot trust our governments." – President Herbert Hoover

The irony is that Hoover was a hyper-interventionist. His background as an engineer compelled him to constantly interfere with the free market. Most of Roosevelt's new deal was on the back of Hoover's policies. Hoover demonized some as being "too rich" and sought easy credit to lubricate the engine of the economy. This easy credit led to the stock market crash. Hoover initiated the Smoot-Hawley tariff that destroyed international trade.

"We shall tax and tax, spend and spend, and elect and elect." – Advisor to FDR

Under FDR government, spending doubled from 1933-1940 and yet the Depression got worse. During this time, the unemployment rate was 30%. He employed 10 million Americans in relief jobs and yet things got worse. He put price controls on goods and services and yet they became unaffordable. The Collectivist National Recovery Agency poked their nose into every business and fined people for not following the government's plan.

The economy recovered with war and the eventual reduction of government spending and employment. $40 billion of wealth was transferred from the American people to the International Bankers. Joe Kennedy went from $4 million in 1929 to $100 million in 1935. The Fed kept contracting the money supply for years during the Depression and refused to lower rates. Two days after his inauguration, FDR declared a bank holiday and closed all banks. He confiscated all gold and paid them $20.66/oz. $11 billion was created out of thin air to purchase all of the gold. Then he devalued the dollar and gold shot up to $35/oz., nearly doubling their investment.

FDR wasn't the only leader consolidating power. The British started secretly funding the National Socialist German Worker's Party, through Britain's Lord Norman and Germany's former Reichsbank president Hjalmar Schacht, who got backing of all the German industrialists. The British backed Hitler, Neville Chamberlin, Lord Beaverbrook, Governor of the Bank of England Montagu Norman and King Edward VIII.

The plan was to have the Fascist Germans get into a bloody stalemate with Communist Russians, while the British and Americans consolidated their power. During the Great Depression, millions were pumped into Hitler's Germany.

"After WWI, Germany fell into the hands of the international bankers. Those bankers bought her, and they now own her, lock, stock and barrel. They have purchased her industries, they have mortgages on her soil, they control her production, they control all her public utilities. The international German bankers have subsidized the present government of Germany and they have also supplied every dollar of the money Adolf Hitler has used in this lavish campaign to build up threat to the government of Bruening.

When Bruening fails to obey the orders of the German international bankers, Hitler is brought forth to scare the Germans into submission. Through the Federal Reserve Board over $30 billion of American money has been pumped into Germany.

Modernistic dwellings, her great planetariums, her gymnasiums, her swimming pools, her fine public highways, her perfect factories. All this was done in our money. All this was given to Germany through the Federal Reserve Board. The Federal Reserve Board has pumped so many billions of dollars into Germany that they dare not name the total."

- Congressman Louis T. McFadden

There was a strong movement in the U.S. to counter Roosevelt's Socialism with American Fascism. Before the war, Hitler and Mussolini were practically worshipped as strong leaders who worked with their corporations to bring economic vitality.

"Fascism is more appropriately called corporatism as it merges the power of the corporations with the state." – Benito Mussolini

In 1933, Hitler secured power in Germany. Hermann Goering set fire to the German Parliament and blamed the terrorist attack on Communists. Marinus van der Lubbe was prosecuted as the fall guy. This false flag gave Hitler the power of the Enabling Act to squash political opposition and created political enemies such as Communists and Jews.

The Enabling Act pushed aside the German Constitution, civil rights and the democratically elected government to deal with this "emergency." Just like George W. Bush said, "You are either with us or against us."

"An evil exists that threatens every man, woman and child of this great nation. We must take steps to secure our domestic security and protect our homeland." – Adolf Hitler

"An evil exists that threatens every man, woman and child of this great nation. We must take steps to secure our domestic security and protect our homeland." – George W. Bush

In 1933, there was a plot to overthrow the Roosevelt government in the middle of the depression. This plot was funded by Wall St. firms (J.P. Morgan and Brown Brothers Harriman), and it was led by Jerald McGuire. If this Fascist group succeeded the U.S. could have sided with Germany and Italy in WWII. Major General Smedley Butler went along with the plan only to uncover the plot.

Disgruntled veterans would be used to muscle power from Roosevelt and push for behind the scenes power. If Roosevelt resisted, he would be killed. Fascism was sold to Butler as the only way to defeat Communism. They would use the group to say that they were standing up for the Constitution, the troops and America. Backers of this coup included Goodyear Tire, General Foods, US Steel, Heinz and General Motors. Prescott Bush was charged under the Trading with the Enemies Act for dealing with the Nazis.

Major General Butler is famous for his "war is a racket" line.

-He proposed that it would be impossible to be invaded because of the oceans on each coast.

-The Navy should be up to 500 miles offshore and the Air Force no more than 750 miles.

-Restore the militia to train and arm every man.

-During war, every politician, CEO and every worker would be paid the same as the soldiers.

With Germany being built up, America was brought to its knees during the Depression. Gold was under control of the bankers. It was time to create the most debt ever with WWII. In 1944, the GNP was $183 billion and $103 billion was spent on the war.

The American taxpayer paid for 55% of the total allied war effort. The U.S. debt went from $43 billion to $257 billion, over 500%. Japanese debt went up 1,000% and French debt went up 600%.

When the war was over, there were only two powers, world communists and state fascists (Hegelian Dialectic). Both sides were funded by the international bankers. They would fight for the next six decades in arms races, space races, and proxy wars. This cold war gave cover and funding for the bankers to move national governments to regional and global government.

Hitler was fascinated with the history of oil. Hitler didn't want war with England and saw them as allies against the Communist Russians. His main focus was against Communism, not England or America. The Rothschild bankers had big plans for more debt and for communism to win.

The Polish War Guarantee forced Britain into war with Germany as Hitler tried to reclaim Danzig from being taken after WWI. If England stayed out of the war, Germany may have destroyed communism in Russia.

Pearl Harbor

The U.S. lured Japan into attacking. We cut off oil supplies, scrap metal sales and food. The U.S. broke Japan prior to the attack and knew it was coming. On December 4, 1941, Australia warned the U.S. that an attack was coming. FDR froze Japanese assets and made loans to China to provoke Japan.

On December 7, 1941, Japan attacked Pearl Harbor where 2,400 soldiers died. After this attack, 1 million men volunteered to go to war. I.G. Farben, Union Banking Corporation and U.S. Standard Oil were big players who support Nazi Germany. Niall Ferguson blames the world wars on racism, economic conflict, and declining empires. Race, genetics and evolution were powerful preoccupations during this time in history. Americans were ill-tempered and undisciplined to the Germans.

Jews were greedy to the Germans. Japanese were monkeys to the Americans. Chinese were sub humanoids to the Japanese. Walter Lippman was an aristocrat that viewed society in two classes; the ignorant masses and the elite that would steer society. Wars were fueled by racism and dehumanization of the enemy. Jews were shown as subhuman to the Germans. The "Japs" were shown as subhuman to the Americans. The Chinese were show as subhuman to the Japanese. Political propaganda played a major role in pinning one group against another. This superiority complex pervades most of the elite. They fight hard to prevent lower classes the education and nutrition that they afforded.

There is no genetic superiority, only social and economic advantages. Communism spread across Russia and China. The Fascist Axis Powers of Germany, Italy, Spain and Japan were more anti-communist than other nations. The Anglo American powers and owners controlled the communists. This is why the Axis powers had to be defeated and allied with a mass murderer. Joseph Stalin slaughtered millions of his own people including 6 million in Ukraine in 1932. FDR called him "Uncle Joe" and lent him $11 billion in the lend-lease to the U.S.S.R. (Nixon discharged the debt for 10 cents on the dollar). The Soviets received 14,000 aircraft, 500,000 tanks and trucks, 400 combat ships, food and supplies under the guise of fighting Hitler. In reality, the communists won WWII.

The Military Industrial Complex

After WWII, the British empire was no longer the dominant power. America emerged with the world reserve currency, oil concessions and the strongest banks. This new power was formalized in the 1944 Bretton Woods agreement that created the dollar standard. This agreement created the IMF, World Bank and GATT.

The dollar was backed by gold since most of the world's gold was deposited in the U.S. The Marshall Plan mandated that all relief dollars were used to purchase American oil. Oil prices doubled in the 3 years following the war. While the world was rebuilding, America was consolidating oil interests especially in Saudi Arabia.

President Kennedy wanted to spark American industry by government spending in the space race. The government could spend massive money to create new technologies that could be transferred into the civilian economy. The Military Industrial Complex saw more profit potential in war.

Kennedy was about to pull out of Vietnam and sign Executive Order 11110. This authorized the Treasury to print $4 billion dollars of debt and interest-free currency backed by U.S. government silver holdings. This was a big threat to the bankers. After JFK's assassination, the Vietnam War was escalated, the red seal treasury notes were taken out of circulation and silver was taken out of all American currency. Vietnam went from being a CIA operation into a full-blown war involving 500,000 men.

In America, unemployment was hidden as millions of young adults were herded into colleges to help fund Academia. With this influx, the quality and standards of education dropped as the government paid the bill.

Factories fled the unionized cities leaving behind ghettos and slums. Meanwhile, the CIA experimented with psychedelic drugs (LSD). This numbed users to politics as they were getting high. The U.S. sold off its 5 billion ounces of silver into the market to suppress the price and production. The American economy was being transformed into the Military Industrial Complex that consumed billions of dollars fighting the Cold War.

President Johnson was able to fund his Great Society "Guns & Butter" program by running federal deficits and printing off money. In the early 60's, federal deficits averaged $36 billion each year. In 1967, they grew to $9 billion. By 1968, they exploded to $25 billion.

The Gulf of Tonkin incident never happened. It was a false flag that set us up for going into the Vietnam War.

58,000 lives were lost, 1.5 million Vietnamese deaths and billions of dollars of profits for the Military Industrial Complex and the bankers who funded both sides. All for a lie!

RFK and MLK were both assassinated in 1968 as they became the forefront politically to the disaffected American population. RFK was killed as he secured the Democratic nomination. MLK was killed after he spoke out against the Vietnam War and moved to unionize the south.

MLK linked the fact that money was given freely to kill, and none given to the poor at home. This drove the poor into the military to fight for the corporate interests of the Military Industrial Complex. MLK followed the teachings of Gandhi's peaceful non-compliance, who broke the back of the British empire in India.

Good as Gold

The Real Golden Rule is "he who has the gold, makes the rules." 2/3 of the world's gold was owned by the IMF and central banks. After WWII, there were 700 million ounces of gold in Fort Knox. No audits have been done since 1953. The gold has been sold off over the years to support international agendas. French Nationalist leader Charles de Gaulle saw a crack in the Anglo American financial power and started to demand gold for the dollars they held.

He sought to create a German alliance to balance the Americans and British. He was involved in talks with South Africa not to sell their gold for $35/oz. In March 1968, gold flew out of Fort Knox to keep the price stabilized. The U.S. government requested a two week closing of the London gold market. In April 1968, the U.S. unveiled another scheme to kick the can down the road, Special Drawing Rights. In May 1968, NY and London backed student riots in France while they made a run to convert Francs for gold. They drained out 30% of France's gold. This run on gold brought down the de Gaulle government.

By August 1971, Nixon closed the gold window since all of the gold was gone. Foreigners could no longer redeem paper dollars for gold. The U.S. defaults on the dollar. Once the gold window was closed, the Americans set out to back the dollar with oil. The 1973 OPEC "oil shock" and the "oil shortage" were secretly planned by the highest levels of the U.S. and British elites. All of the new petrodollars would be recycled into Treasuries or American companies that would fuel growth and consumption.

In May 1973, western financial elite met in Sweden during Prince Berhard's Bilderberg Meeting. Walter Levy proposed a 400% rise in oil prices to create a bigger demand for the dollar. Those petrodollars could be recycled into Treasuries to lower interest rates spurring demand and growth. This assault would bring power back to the Anglo American financial establishment.

There needed to be a cause for the oil embargo. Egypt was a client state of the Russians under Nasser. He nationalized the British (Rothschild) Suez Canal and got the Russians to finance the Aswan Dam in July 1956. In October 1956, Israel, England and France attacked Egypt and took the Sinai and Suez Canal. Nasser sunk 50 ships and shut it down. President Eisenhower was outraged by the Rothschild planned attack and demanded to the U.N. that Israel withdraw for Egypt to open the canal.

In 1967, during the 6 Day War, Egypt lost the Sinai Peninsula, Gaza Strip, West Bank, Golan Heights and the Suez Canal. Anwar Sadat became President of Egypt after Nassar died of a heart attack. Saddat sought to resume American relations under the nose of the Russians. Saddat saw this as a way to cut off Israel's lifeline (American foreign aid).

He offered the U.S. to reopen the canal if the Israelis moved out of the Sinai. The Americans through Henry Kissinger had another plan that would use this situation to their advantage. Once war was inevitable, the Arab states would take the fall for the oil embargo while reaping the benefit of the 400% rise in their oil. On October 6, 1973, Egypt and Syria invaded Israel. From 1949 to 1970, oil averaged $1.90/barrel. On October 16, 1973, OPEC raised their price 70% overnight to $3.01/barrel. On October 17, 1973, OPEC announced that they would cut oil production 5% every month until Israel withdrew from Arab territories from the 1967 war.

By January 1974, OPEC raised prices again to $11.65/barrel. This was the 400% increase that was planned months earlier at the Bilderberg conference. In 1974, Exxon overtook GM as the largest American corporation. The gold standard had been replaced by the petrodollar and once again controlled by the Anglo Americans. This was one of the largest wealth transfers in history. 70% of the windfall profits from the Arab states were recycled through American Treasuries and related investments.

The Arabs tried to cut power from the western powers and secretly invested money into the countries they public fought. This established the petrodollar as the world's reserve currency that was controlled and manipulated by the international bankers. This rise in oil prices gave Britain the economic feasibility to produce and develop the North Sea oil fields. It also allowed for the North Slope in Alaska to be developed by the Americans.

The oil shock devastated industrial output. Lesser development countries were ravaged by inflation and starvation, especially in Africa. Many nations were forced into debt to the IMF and the World Bank. These debts diverted natural resources from agricultural and industrial development. This resembled the mafia's protection rackets that caused an event that required help from the criminals that caused the problem in the first place.

On December 10, 1974, Henry Kissinger completed the National Security Study Memorandum 200: Implications of Worldwide Population Growth for U.S. Security and Overseas Interests. The study falsely claimed that population growth for Lesser Developed Countries was a big threat to U.S. national security. NSSM 200 outlined a plan to REDUCE population growth in those countries through birth control, war and famine.

Nuclear power became the next energy choice as the price of oil rose. Nuclear power produced unlimited power and no pollution. It was also a more efficient way to produce power than oil or coal. This nuclear power was embraced by France and Germany.

The rise in nuclear energy was a threat to the Anglo American monopoly of oil and their financial power. If nations could provide unlimited "free energy," they would have no need for the fiat dollar or the oil that backed it. The Anglo American empire fought to back by limiting the production of uranium and creating the environmental green movement. The Green movement promoted population control and reducing pollution by making energy more expensive through taxes.

America Turns to the Dark Side

After political power was consolidated in the country, the British countries would be close behind ready to sign contracts with the ruler. This provided money, jobs, technical and military assistance. In Iran, the British Oil companies signed deals with the Persian Monarch Shah Muzaffer to buy oil from them for very low fixed terms such as $20,000 and 16% of whatever was found in Iran.

In 1948, the Iranians protested to the U.N. to have foreign troops leave. Unfortunately, the financial powers didn't budge. In 1948, BP made $320 million in profits while they only paid $36 million in royalties. The Iranians were denied their 50/50 split request. The Iranians rebelled against economic rape of their national resources and installed a democratically elected Mohammad Mossadegh. The British looked to America for help in this matter. They sent in Theodore Roosevelt's grandson, Kermit Roosevelt, who was a CIA agent, to run Operation Ajax.

He went to Iran to bribe and threaten enough people to organize riots to overthrow the Mossadegh government. They captured Mossadegh and imprisoned him for life. The Anglo American empire installed Mohammed Reza Shah as dictator. They provided him with capital, military and police assistance, technical expertise and foreign legitimacy.

Any attempts to fight Shah were labeled as communists. He ruled for many years as his government became stronger and the lower classes became weaker. In 1974, Iran signed a deal to buy 5 nuclear power plants from France. It was expanded to 8 in 1975. In 1976, Iran signed deals with Germany for 6 more reactors. By 1978, Iran had the 4th largest nuclear program in the world.

In 1978, France and Germany started what would become the Euro, a regional monetary system to act as a buffer to the petrodollar. In October 1978, negotiations collapsed in Iran over the renewal of the 25 year oil lease with the Anglo Americans. In November 1978, Zbigniew Brzezinski recommended to Washington to drop support from the Shah and adopt a new Middle Eastern foreign policy. Brzezinski studied Islamic Fundamentalism as a way of creating disorder in the Middle East along religious and ethnic boundaries. Naturally, this would spread into the Muslim regions of Russia.

Britain created the economic conditions needed for revolution.

-They limited their oil exports that drove down capital.

-They organized a capital flight out of Iran through their banks.

-They did not allow the Shah to use the British controlled media to organize the people. Another example of when the media is weaponized against the people.

The BBC gave the Ayatollah full propaganda support of the media. The Shah fled in January 1979. The Ayatollah was flown in the following month. In May 1979, the Ayatollah cancelled the French and German nuclear power programs. A new generation rebelled against this oppressive government and their foreign parasites. The Iranians unified under their religion, staged protests and overthrew the governments.

There was a secretive deal made to have Iran release the hostages (Iranian Hostage Crisis 1979-1981), in exchange for weapons. This took place in the Iran Contra Affair. Under the guise of fighting communism, a few elite members had secret, illegal dealings with Iranians to sell them weapons and use the proceeds to fund the contras.

The Iranians didn't realize that these same men made a similar deal with Saddam Hussein. They provided weapons and intelligence to Saddam to conquer the Iranians. The plan was to pin Iran vs. Iraq as seen in the 8 year Iran Iraq War. Iran lost over 1 million men during the war. A whole generation of men were killed in the name of oil. Saddam used chemical weapons against his own people to attempt to rally up support to fight the Iranians.

The second oil shock of 1979 had started. With Iran in turmoil, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait cut oil production and increased the price of oil yet again from $14 to $40/barrel. Paul Volcker became the head of the Federal Reserve and immediately raised interest rates up to 20% to squeeze inflation out of the economy. Their aim was to make the dollar the most desired currency and to stop economic development.

The early 80's saw the rise of Reagan and Thatcher that cut government social spending, increased military spending, deregulation, and breaking of labor unions. This new monetary order prevented any new nuclear power plants from being constructed as dozens were cancelled due to financing costs.

The third world debts started to strain local governments and moves towards defaults were rising. Argentina was at the forefront of this movement with $38 billion in foreign debt. As a result, Britain engaged them in the Falkland Island War with "gunboat diplomacy."

The U.S. took care of Mexico with a planned run on the Mexican Peso in 1981. This forced resource-rich Mexico into poverty and furthered the Spanish Aristocracy that run Mexico with inflationary wealth. The peso went from 12 pesos to the dollar in 1982 to 2,300 by 1989. As the Latin American countries started to default en masse, the bankers switched tactics toward banker socialism. Gains are privatized, losses are socialized.

The IMF forgave the debt provided that the governments would cut social services to the bare minimum. This led to poor nutrition and poor education of the people. This was a trap. Once the nation fell into debt to Anglo American bankers, the only way out was to give up sovereign control of their economy and natural resources. Debt for equity. The bankers earn real wealth out of debt created out of thin air.

The Hunt Brothers fought against the Wall St. and Washington criminal bankers. They were on of the wealthiest families in America. H.L. Hunt moved to Texas and became the largest independent oil producer in the largest oil field found to date. The sons moved into the business, and many became millionaires by their twenties. Bunker Hunt was a billionaire by 35. They used their oil profits to buy 5 million acres of real estate, cattle, sugar and a football team (Kansas City Chiefs). They found silver in 1970 when it was $1.50/oz. At the time, it was illegal to own gold, so they went for silver. The Hunts saw huge inflation coming from the Vietnam War and Johnson's Great Society programs.

By 1973, they had 200,000 oz. of silver and the price rose to $3. They hired the best shooters in Texas to ride shotgun on the largest silver transfer ever on three chartered 707 airplanes. The silver was dispersed at six different banks.

Bunker Hunt went on the floor at the COMEX and declared that "almost anything is better than paper money and any fool can run a printing press." Bunker went out to find another powerful family to join his silver ventures. He went to see the Shah in Iran in March 1975 and was turned away. The Shah was a puppet of the Rockefellers. He then set up a meeting with King Faisal in Saudi Arabia in April. Unfortunately, by late March, the King was assassinated by his nephew.

In 1979, Bunker and Herbert went into business with two Saudi Sheiks who were thought to be fronts to the Saudi Royal Family. The International Metal Investment Group was formed in Bermuda. They purchased 43 million oz. and took delivery in the fall. The price of silver doubled from $8 to $16/oz.

In 1979, the warehouses of the two exchanges only held 120 million oz. of silver and that amount was traded in October alone. In late 1979, the CBOT changed the rules and stated that no investor could hold over 3 million oz. of silver contracts and the margin requirement was raised. All contracts over 3 million oz. per trader must be liquidated by February 1980. Bunker felt that he didn't have enough metal to cover the contracts and that the NY banks were short the metal.

On the last day of 1979, the price of silver was $34.45/oz. Bunker and Herbert held 40 million oz. in Switzerland and 90 million oz. jointly owned through International Metals. In addition, International Metals had contracts on another 90 million oz. due for delivery that March from the COMEX. The younger brother, Lamar, had entered the arena and taken a $300 million dollar silver position by late 1979. On January 7, 1980, the COMEX changed the rules to only allow 10 million oz. of contracts per trader and all contracts over must be liquidated before February 18th. The CFTC backed up the ruling.

By January 17th, silver hit $50/oz. Bunker continued to buy. His silver position was worth $4.5 billion, bringing his profits in silver to $3.5 billion. On January 21st, the COMEX announced that it was suspending trading in silver. They would only accept liquidation orders.

By March 14th, silver was down to $21/oz. Volcker had raised interest rates and the dollar had firmed up. This made borrowing to speculate on silver more expensive. International Metals still held 60 million oz of futures contracts.

The margin calls on those amounted to $10 million/day!

On March 25, 1980, the Hunt Brothers ran out of cash. Herbert told the broker the next morning that they could not meet their $135 million dollar margin call that day. The CFTC chairman, Federal Reserve chairman and U.S. Treasury Secretary started a silver monitoring session. The physical metal they owned averaged $10/oz. The futures contracts were at $35/oz.

The Federal Reserve chairman approved a bailout plan for the Hunt Brothers.

Bunker filed for bankruptcy and paid off the tax money that he owed to the IRS.

Here are some of the key takeaways:

-Silver is the Achilles Heel of the entire banking system.

-The big banks are short millions of ounces that they could never deliver upon thus suppressing the price of silver (great opportunity to buy at subsidized rates).

-Always take physical delivery of silver and never use margin. If you don't hold it, you don't own it.

-Accumulate silver every month, so that together we can all act as Hunts.

-The Hunts didn't realize how connected the Rockefeller's were and they were thwarted many times because of that.

-The whole reason why Volcker raised interest rates was not to strengthen the dollar or squeeze out inflation. He did this to squeeze the Hunts out of their positions. Once they caved, he lowered interest rates.

Gold went from $35 to $880 in 8 years. Goldfinger was written by Ian Flemming, the head of MI5, and authored many books as a warning of secret government plans. Nelson Rockefeller's personal secretary was a whistleblower on the Rockefeller's scheme to use the Fed to sell off the Fort Knox gold. She "fell" out of a window three days later. Tell the truth and have your brains splattered on the pavement.

In 1980, Reagan commissioned a study on the return of the gold standard. The commission replied, "the Treasury of the U.S. had no gold, and all of the gold had been sold by the Fed." This new monetary system influenced success in the U.S. No longer were wealthy Americans oil or cattle barons or captains of industry.

They were created by debt speculation. The inflation of the 70's created a new class of elite that became rich by simply owning real assets that rose in the inflationary environment. Stocks, bonds and real estate speculation created more and more millionaires.

America's power rose on consumption as its productive capacity was left to rust. The U.S. went from the largest creditor to the largest debtor in a matter of years. By 1985, American debts soared, and the economy began to falter. The U.S. lured the Russians into Afghanistan by funding and radicalizing the Mujahedeen 6 months before Russia invaded. Zbigniew Brzezinski details in an interview:

"According to the official version of history, CIA aid to the Mujahedeen began in 1980, that is to say, after the Soviet army invaded Afghanistan on December 24, 1979. But the reality, closely guarded until now, is completely otherwise. Indeed, it was July 3, 1979, that President Carter signed the first directive for secret aid of the opponents of the pro-Soviet regime in Kabul. We now have the opportunity of giving to the USSR its Vietnam War. What is more important in world history: the Taliban or the collapse of the Soviet empire? Some agitated Muslims or the liberation of Central Europe and the end of the Cold War?"

-1.8 million Afghans died

-2.6 million refugees

-10 million land mines “according to the official story”

-3,000+ died on 9/11 plus thousands of men died due to our invasion of Afghanistan

Meanwhile, Japan needed to be brought in line as they have had a free pass to develop their economic power without having to pay for its own defense. Japan was built up as a counterweight to China. The 1985 Plaza Accords were designed to weaken the over-valued dollar. The Bank of Japan lowered interest rates in an effort to drive capital into U.S. markets. As a result, the money flowed to the Japanese housing and stock markets. Many of the top banks in the world were Japanese at the time. By 1989, the Japanese bubbles had popped.

The Bush Administration threatened Japan with drastic troop reductions which would upset the balance of power in Asia. The U.S. had control over world oil supplies that Japan needed. Japan fell in line and became the biggest buyer of U.S. debt. Four other Asian countries followed the Japanese mercantilist model for developing their country into industrial powerhouses. They started by being outsourced economies for the Japanese. Eventually, they matured into highly successful manufacturing economies growing at 8% per years. They were known as the Asian Tigers.

These countries resisted the IMF, and they relied on direct investment in manufacturing plants. Once capital controls were loosened, hot money flooded the Asian Tigers and their growth jumped on speculative excess in stocks and real estate.

George Soros, Julian Robertson, and LTCM attacked the Thai Baht. This led to a wave of panics throughout the region that left Wall St. with fat pockets and the countries begging for the IMF to save them. The U.S. became involved in the Balkans to quell ethnic violence, but for once again oil. The Balkans lie on the Black Sea which is the easiest way to get oil out of the Caspian Sea. Geologists believe that there was another Saudi Arabia of oil in the unexplored region.

It was crucial for the U.S. to control the Caspian Sea to prevent Europe from getting oil from this area. James Baker wrote that America should create strong economic, cultural and political ties to Georgia, a country between the Caspian oil and Western markets.

The U.S. stepped into the European conflict (sound familiar?) under the U.N. banner, stopping ethnic violence and setup a military base in Kosovo, Camp Bond Steel. This was one of the largest military bases in the world and in reach of the Caspian area. This geopolitical move tightened the grip of the dollar and oil. Once again, the U.S. prevented Europe from having independent energy.

The elite use psychological techniques in recruiting people to work for them. When they recruited John Perkins, they could care less that he was opposed to the Vietnam War. They did care about his attitudes towards his parents (power), emotions about being poor in a wealthy surrounding (greed) and lack of sexual partners (sex). These three major motivators drive psychopathic people.

Work for the elite and they will fulfill your deep desires, just sell your soul to the dark side. If you ever wonder how a poor kid from Arkansas (Bill Clinton) or a poor kid from Chicago (Barack Obama) became President, look no further than these recruiting techniques. To the elite, it is nothing to give scholarships to see how someone performs. Maybe give them a cushy consulting job while they are being groomed to become a politician. The elite gravitate to power hungry leaders with psychopathic behavior.

Saddam Hussein was ruthless in his pursuit of power and was a huge fan of Joseph Stalin. By giving these power hungry men tools, the elite would secure a country's assets through debt and the power structure needed to collect on the debt. Work for the elite to become very wealthy and powerful or they will kill you and your family. Saudi Arabia is the poster child of the American empire. They are just as repressive as Saddam but since they agree with the U.S., they are exalted as a strong ally. Saudi Arabia is known for beheadings and draconian laws. They are very repressive towards women's rights. They beat women. They are huge fans of sex slaves, child molestation and massive pedophilia. The Saudis conducted the torture interrogations back when the U.S. did not do it.

The U.S. made the Saudi's increasingly dependent on the America with their arms, technical and financial assets. In turn the Saudis would act as a ballast to the other oil producers who might cut supplies in order to pressure American interests. After the end of the Iran Iraq War and Cold War, America set its eyes on total domination of the Middle East. Iraq just ended a bloody war with Iran that left Saddam holding the bag of $60 billion in debt. In 1989, a delegation of Rockefeller business interests went to Saddam with a deal he couldn't refuse; restructure the debt and give up all of the country's natural resources.

Saddam refused. He attempted to rally the other Arab nations to bind together and leverage their huge energy resources into political power. The Anglo Americans had Kuwait overproduce oil to drive oil prices down to increase pressure on Saddam to rethink the offer. The Banking and Oil interests engineered a reverse oil shock that served to upset the oil producers and over-leveraged American citizens, banks and corporations. By working with Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to overproduce oil, they drove oil down to $10/barrel.

This provided relief to the American economy and drove independent oil producers into bankruptcy. As interest rates drop since "inflation was dead," it fueled leveraged buyouts. This coupled with deregulation allowed the elite to consolidate power once again. These corporate raiders could borrow heavily to buy the equity of a conservatively run company with no debt. They would break up the company into pieces or load the company up with debt and cash out. The S & L Crisis was engineered for a few well connected elites.

Russia realized that they could no longer support the communistic state with the collapse of oil. This was the beginning of the end of communism. With the collapse of the Soviet Union, their markets were in turmoil and political uncertainty. The Anglo American technocrats recommended economic shock therapy for the Russians to allow unfettered capitalism to cleanse the communistic state. All state assets were sold at bargain prices to the few Russians that had sufficient capital (Rothschild Oligarchs owned 50% of all Russian assets).

All social services stopped, and the citizens were thrown to the wolves. This shock therapy was equivalent to throwing a 10 year old into the Navy Seals. They wouldn't be prepared at all. The effects were devastating, average life expectancy dropped, industrial production collapsed, and organized crime and inflation skyrocketed.

Tensions reached their peak between Saddam and Kuwait in 1990. On July 27th, 1990, U.S. Ambassador April Glaspie asked for a meeting with Saddam to inquire about the dispute with Kuwait. Glaspie told Saddam that the U.S. won't take any stance on Iraqi border disputes and promptly went on vacation. One week later, Saddam invaded Kuwait with the green light from Washington who has been courting the dictators for many years.

The Kuwaiti Royal Family was able to escape in advance of the invasion with their assets. Their fellow countrymen were left to be slaughtered by Saddam's army. Washington encouraged, tricked or turned a blind eye to Saddam invading Kuwait. They did this after many attempts to get Saddam back in line with Western policy. They wanted to cripple his army but leave him in power to bring him back to the table to finally accept the debt for oil deal.

After Saddam was pushed out of Kuwait, President Bush encouraged an Iraqi uprising in the Shiite south and the Kurdish north. America did not take out Saddam or give aid to the rebellious Iraqis. They enforced a "no-fly zone" but did not include helicopter that were used in the mass slaughter of over 300,000 Iraqis.

During the years between the two gulf wars, Saddam was allowed to sell his oil through an Oil for Food program administered by the U.N. This program lasted for 8 years but was full of corruption as the elite siphoned off billions with bribes, kickbacks, and no bid contracts. The theft through this program was responsible for hundreds of thousands of dead Iraqis who lacked proper nutrition and medical care.

The real reason for the invasion of Iraq has nothing to do with 9/11 or weapons of mass destruction. Saddam was no longer selling oil in dollars. He was selling oil for Euros through BNP Paribas. This was a threat to the dollar, and it had the potential for other nations to follow. The dollar's demand is propped up worldwide by the very need to use dollars to buy oil. Remember, oil is the life blood of every economy. Americans are not going to rebuild Iraq as a free nation but to protect the interests of the Western Bankers.

History is written by the victors.

"First, for more than seven years the U.S. is occupying the lands of Islam in the holiest of its territories, Arabia, plundering its riches, overwhelming its rulers, humiliating its people, threatening its neighbors and using its military bases in the peninsula as a spearhead to fight neighboring Islamic people. There is no better proof of all of this than their eagerness to destroy Iraq, the strongest of the neighboring Arab states, and their attempt to dismember all of the states in the region, such as Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Sudan into petty states, whose division and weakness would ensure the survival of Israel and the continuation of the Crusader (U.S) occupation of the lands of Arabia." – Osama Bin Laden, 1998

The actions that cause the blowback are kept secret from the American people. When a country attacks U.S. interests, the American people are easily herded into an aggressive response with the classic tactic of the Hegelian Dialectic, Problem, Reaction, Solution. This is the major disconnect between America and the rest of the world. We are told we are spreading freedom and the rest of the world sees that we are spreading our power hungry agenda to expand the American empire.

Iran is a perfect example of disconnect. We are being pushed closer and closer to war with Iran. We have even brought up pre-emptive nuclear attacks on Iran. We see in the news that they call us the great Satan, how they are going to wipe Israel off the map and the hostage situation from the late 70's. The real reason is that Iran is selling oil to any nation for any major currency, not just dollars. Again, this is a direct threat on the dollar's world reserve status. Americans are sold on bringing peace and liberty throughout the world. The rest of the world sees the twisted games to rape and pillage their nation for the benefit of the American empire. We are the biggest bully on the block. We are the real terrorists.

When the American empire collapses there will be a point where the U.S. will no longer be able to support itself. We are 5% of the world's population and we use 25% of the world's oil. What will America look like if our oil imports are cut by 2/3? The irony is that generally American people are ignorant to the crimes committed in their names and yet they will be the ones left to pay the full price for all the sins. The International Bankers who designed and profited off of this system will slip into the shadows and eventually emerge as the saviors with another system that benefits them. From 2001-2003, we have over 730 military bases across 50 countries.

Folks, we need to stop poking our nose in the business of other nations.

"Democracy and Humanitarianism were nice sentiments, but they were simply a cloak for the U.S. and Britain to maintain their control over most of the world's wealth."

– Prince Konoe Fumimaro

America is responsible for several murderous regimes it has supported:

-Communism throughout the world (Lenin, Stalin, Mao).

-The rise of Hitler.

-IMF "loans" forcing starvation.

-The Shah's persecution in Iran.

-Right wing death squads in Central and South America.

-Various "strong men" in Africa.

-General Augusto Pinochet in Chile.

-Turkey's genocide of the Kurdish population.

-The Taliban in Afghanistan.

-Israel vs. Palestinians.

Israel is the Anglo American focal point of the Middle East. They resemble the Nazis with their horrific treatment of the Palestinians.

Get with the Program

"Life is a comedy for those who think and a tragedy for those who feel." – Horace Walpole

We have three major parts of our brain and therefore three different types of thought.

The Basal Ganglia controls our animal instincts such as our reaction to fear, fight or flight, breeding and choosing a mate, migration, desires and our territorial nature.

The Limbic System is the next step in the Brain's hierarchy, and it controls our emotions. These emotions amplify our animal instincts. We love deeper. We fight harder. We run faster. Our pleasure is found here.

The Basal Ganglia and the Limbic System do not learn or change. There are no value judgments.

The Neo Cortex is our thinking brain. It can override the Basal Ganglia and the Limbic System. It is the part that thinks through ideas or problems. The higher the I.Q., the more control the Neo Cortex has. Emotional Intelligence is important to self-motivate, control impulse, regulate mood, self-awareness and delay gratification.

The Limbic System is really the one in charge. It is faster than the Neo Cortex (the gut reaction). It regulates the amplitude of emotions. An example of this would be when you cannot think sometimes. The Limbic System overrides the Neo Cortex with primal urges. It can overwhelm the Neo Cortex when its necessary. The rational logical is slave to the irrational emotional.

The Limbic System has three fundamental motivations:

Power

-Desire for power (influence, control) or fear of losing power (lost power, post social status).

Affiliation

-Desire for affiliation (acceptance, love) or fear of losing affiliation (lost love, rejection by society).

Achievement

-Desire for achievement (progress, results) or fear of losing achievement (failure, loss of wealth).

Fear is far more powerful than desire. Those that use the fear to motivate them are unstoppable.

"It is not because the truth is too difficult to see that we make mistakes. We make mistakes because the easiest and most comfortable course for us is to seek insight where it accords with our emotions, especially selfish ones." – Alexander Solzhenitsyn

"If we understand the mechanism and motives of the group mind, is it not possible to control and regiment the masses according to our will without their knowing about it? The recent practice of propaganda has proved that it is possible, at least up to a certain point and within certain limits." – Edwards Bernays

When you question yourself, you then must question your surroundings, your family upbringing, and society as a whole. This was Sigmund Freud's challenge to the aristocrat society. By tapping into people's unhappiness and bringing it to the surface, one then found that they are victims of their surroundings. Aristocracy always promoted to their people to suppress their feelings and keep a stiff upper lip. British society is ingrained with this, and they are one of the last Royal families to still have power.

Edward Bernays was the nephew of Sigmund Freud. Bernays was the father of modern propaganda, marketing, product placement, celebrity endorsement and spin. He used his uncle's theories to sell people stuff that people didn't need, by touching on their unconscious desires. How many decisions do you make on just facts? Many of our decisions are based off of your "gut" or unconscious desires.

Edward Bernays had the bright idea of marketing the concept of smoking to women. The cigarette represents the penis or male sexual power. He could get women to challenge male sexual power by giving them their own "penis."

Women were sold that if they smoked, they would be strong and independent. Completely irrational but it was a way that you wanted people to see you since perception is reality. Bernays was able to get people to do irrational things by linking products to their desires.

After WWII, American companies were worried about their massive manufacturing capacity. Americans needed to be trained from needs based to desire based. Buying new things made them feel better about themselves. Bernays created the celebrity endorsement and product placement. Marketers paint pictures in people's minds and it reshapes their image of themselves.

We just have to keep up with the Joneses by buying that boat, new McMansion, Range Rover, iPhone 27, etc. When we focus on our desires by being consumers, we shut out the needs of other citizens. It was easier for the elite to control the masses by targeting their desires.

Engineering of consent is the art and science of using unconscious fears and desires towards moving the masses in political and economic realms. They key was that if the elite can keep stimulating people's irrational fears and desires, they could do whatever they want.

There are two view of people that have dominated my life. Those that view people as good. Live and let live. Then there are those that view people as bad. People are stupid and need to be controlled. It boils down to people who want to be left alone and those that won't leave you alone. Those that feel people are bad, are projecting their images of themselves onto the rest of society. These insecure people are psychopathic narcissists since they lack empathy and have a strong desire to control others.

"Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government, which is the true ruling power in our country. It remains a fact that in almost every act of our daily lives, whether in the sphere of politics or business, in our social conduct or our ethical thinking, we are dominated by the relatively small number of persons who pull the wires which control the public mind, who harness old social forces and contrive new ways to bind and guide the world." – Edwards Bernays, 1928

Keep Your Enemies Closer

Another tactic the elite use to control us is the Hegelian Dialectic. Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel was a utopian idealist that hated the individual and was historically admired by collectivists (people who want other people's money so that they don't have to work a real job). The Hegelian view of humas is really how they view themselves.

Remember this when you listen to a psychopath describing someone who is evil. The Hegelian Dialectic is a tool that manipulates us into a powerful circular pattern of thought and action. We become so blinded by the two sides that we cannot see even the possibility of another way. By participating in the dialectic, you are advancing the elite's agenda against you.

A good example of this would be Democrats vs. Republicans (centralized elite power) and Socialism vs Capitalism (tyranny). Joseph Goebbels (a close acolyte of Hitler) used huge rallies, powerful yet irrational speeches and images to transform a Christian, education republic into a powerful brainwashed Fascist killing machine.

The individual would give up their deep desires to the leader while their fears are aggressively driven towards "outsiders." In Nazi Germany, it was a test of torture. As long as an authority figure said it was ok, people were complicit in murdering millions.

We are fed the dream, the exception. An example would be the illusion of being the one lottery winner and not the millions of losers. These dreams are fed to us to cloud our judgment. Even if you won the lottery, people often spend irrationally until they throttle themselves into the bucket of crabs known as poverty.

Debt is sold to us as a tool to satisfy our desires. Debt is a drug. It gives us a temporary high but not happiness. We then think the only way to be happy is to do it more. The more debt we accumulate, the less effect it has on us. In my late 20's, I was up to my eyeballs in debt. I owed well over $60,000 to 6 different credit card companies.

I reached a point where no bank would lend me money. Peer to peer lending websites slammed the door in my face. I can remember the feeling of having my credit cards being declined. Creditors calling me every day, nothing in the bank and stressed out of my mind. Fortunately, I had the discipline within to cut up all 6 of my credit cards. Over the course of 5 years, I paid back every dollar that I owed. To this day, I have never used another credit card.

The same way drug dealers get people hooked is the same way debt is dealt.

-Free no risk sample to those who are most susceptible. Usually, endless credit card offers target young college freshmen.

-The unsuspecting target feels the euphoric effects of the drug and goes back for another fix. Who cares if it's 18 to 24% interest. I was told that I need to "build" my credit to go into more debt on a house and a car. Numbers are for squares.

-This time there are strings attached which the target gladly accepts, anything for another fix.

Coming clean from drugs and debt is a very hard road. It takes a conscious rewiring of your brain. Your Neo Cortex must fight to restrain the compulsive desires of the Limbic System. Hitting rock bottom or quitting cold turkey is the only way. Once clean, the compulsion is not cured, only managed.

The answer is not to go to the dark side. This answer lies in the founding principles of this country: separation of power, equal justice, freedom of the press, the right to bear arms and honest money. We have to keep the "ambitious" elite in check since both sides are bought and paid for. Like George Carlin said, "it's a big club and you ain't in it."

"Capital must protect itself in every way. Debts must be collected, loans and mortgages foreclosed as soon as possible. When through a process of law, the common people have lost their homes, they will be more tractable and more easily governed by the strong arm of the law applied by the central power of leading financiers.

People without homes will not quarrel with their leaders. This is well known among our principal men now engaged in forming an imperialism of capitalism to govern the world. By dividing the people, we can get them to expend their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us except as teachers of the common herd."

-Civil Servants' Yearbook "The Organizer" January 1934

The elite have added a new wrinkle to this idea of mass control. They control both sides of the political circus. This is not a new tactic since it is a key to the two largest fortunes in history, the Rothschilds and the Rockefellers. By having two parties, this limits discourse and forces all politicians to work for one side or the other. All other parties are labeled as quacks.

With Democrats and Republicans, there is always an alternative, powerful enough for when voters get upset enough to throw the rat out of office. The other benefit is that by only having two viable choices, you disenfranchise a huge part of society that see through the charade.

This makes them politically inactive and allows the extremists to have a larger say. The two parties crowd out any other competition. This reinforces the illusion of choice. If they are fighting, there must be two choices. You only have an illusion of choice. The reality is they are in effect two crime families running the extortion racket out of D.C.

They will attack each other to gain more power. They have their own political turf to protect. As soon as someone threatens their racket, they join forces to suppress that threat. You saw this on 9/11. The elite have ensured that their interests are protected. They do it by rigging the game to benefit their interests. The only way to "win" the game is to not play the game.

It doesn't matter if they are advancing military power, environmental policies, corporate bailouts, banking regulations or healthcare agendas. They are all attacks on our power. The elite use non-profits and foundations to make policy and law.

Politicians don't actually write the laws. We must eliminate this weapon of the elite. At the end of the day, after all of the smack downs and debates, they are all friends, they go out to dinner and have a big laugh about it.

George W. Bush chokes on pretzels. Obama advances his communistic Kool-Aid message of hope and change. Creepy sleepy Joe Biden laughs at us while slurping up ice cream and sniffing women. Some elite go to Bilderberg meetings, Davos, World Economic Forum, Bohemian Grove, Event 201 (October 2019), Catastrophe Contagion (October 2022), all to plan out the next phases of our dystopian nightmare society.

They laugh at the amount of money they make; how easy it is and how gullible the fans are. Nothing has changed. We have more wars, more debt, larger government, unsecure borders, loss of civil liberties, its endless. No matter who is in power, the elite's agenda moves forward.

-The military gets larger.

-Our country dives deeper into debt to the bankers.

-Americans lose their freedoms, lives and treasure.

-More concentrated power.

-Manufacturing is shipped overseas to weaker nations.

-Illegal immigration is ignored for the benefit of the corporations.

The True Political Spectrum

"Democracy is a pathetic belief in the collective wisdom of individual ignorance."

– H.L. Mencken

"Democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention, have ever been found incompatible with personal security or the rights of property, and have been in general short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths."

- James Madison

What are the basic forms of government? On the left, we have a monarchy and dictatorship where they have total government power. As you move right, you have an oligarchy, democracy and republic. On the far right, you have no government power in the form of anarchy.

Monarchy and Dictatorships rule by 1 person. An Oligarchy rules by a group of elites. With anarchy, no one rules. Really it is just a transition back to an oligarchy. Examples that come to mind would be the regimes of Lenin, Hitler and Castro. Democracy is rule by the people, mob rule. 51% can enslave or steal from the 49%. The word democracy is not in the Declaration of Independence, Constitution or any of the 50 state Constitutions.

With a republic, it is rule by law. The 1% are protected from the 99%. Equal protection for all and a level playing field for free market capitalism and a division of power. This limits the power of the elite. Most of all of these -isms can be put into one -ism, Collectivism.

Collectivism is the belief that the group is more important than the individual. The government would be justified in any act against individuals as long as they said it was benefiting the greater good. There will always be a psychopathic elite at the top determining who shall be sacrificed. They will not stop until all are sacrificed to fulfill the desires of the elite. Collectivism is the antithesis of individual liberty.

"Socialism is not a 'share the wealth' program but in reality, a method to consolidate and control wealth, then the seeming paradox of super rich men promoting socialism becomes no paradox at all. Instead, it becomes logical, even the perfect tool of power-seeking psychopaths. Communism, or more accurately, Socialism, is not a movement of the down-trodden masses but of the economic elite."

"There will be in the next generation or so, a pharmacological method of making people love their servitude, and producing dictatorship without tears, so to speak, producing a kind of painless concentration camp for entire societies, so that people will in fact have their liberties taken away from them, but will rather enjoy it, because they will be distracted from any desire to rebel by propaganda or brainwashing, or brainwashing enhanced by pharmacological methods. And this seems to be the final revolution." – Aldous Huxley

"Socialism is the philosophy of failure, the creed of ignorance and the gospel of envy. The inherent vice of capitalism is the uneven distribution of blessings; whereas the inherent virtue of socialism is the even division of misery." – Winston Churchill

In 1983, 90% of American media was owned by 50 companies. Currently, six corporations (CBS, Comcast, Disney, News Corp, Time Warner and Viacom) control 90% of what you see, read and hear in America.

The Road to Slavery

Willie Lynch was a slave owner in the early 1700's. "Lynching" was name after him. He taught others how to make and break slaves. Foster distrust with young vs. old, male vs. female, etc. Have the women rely on the master (government), not the man. Emasculate the man, put the woman in charge. Destroy their language; use hog pen instead of house.

Sound familiar?

"We reversed nature by burning and pulled a civilized n apart, and bull whipping the other to the point of death, all in her presence. By he being left alone, unprotected, with the male image destroyed, the ordeal caused her to move from her psychological dependent state to a frozen independent state.

In this frozen psychological state of independence, she will raise her male and female offspring in reverse roles. For fear of the young male's life, she will psychologically train him to be mentally weak and dependent, but physically strong. Because she became psychologically independent, she will train her female offspring to be psychologically independent. What have you got? You've got this n woman out front and the n behind and scared. This is a perfect situation of sound sleep and economics." – Willie Lynch

Language enslaves you. By limiting language, you limit thoughts. By limiting thoughts, you limit threats to the establishment. Politically correct is New Speak from George Orwell's 1984. "Making the world safe for democracy" only benefits dictators. "Home ownership for everyone" is really debt slavery. "Credit" really means debt. "Debt" is slavery.

Disinformation Playbook

These are the main tactics that the elite use to control debate.

1. Hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil. If it's not reported, it didn't happen, and you never have to deal with the issues.
2. Become incredulous and indignant. This is also known as the "how dare you!" gambit.
3. Create rumor mongers. Create wild accusations and rumors to discredit opposition.
4. Use a straw man. Find or create a seeming element of your opponent's argument which you can easily knock down to make yourself look good and the opponent to look bad.
5. Sidetrack opponents with name calling and ridicule. This makes others shrink from support out of fear of gaining the same label, and you avoid dealing with issues.
6. Hit and run. Make a brief attack of your opponent and then scamper off before an answer can be fielded.
7. Question motives. Twist any fate to imply that the opponent operates out of a hidden personal agenda.
8. Invoke authority. Claim for yourself as an authority and simply say it isn't so without discussing issues or demonstrating concretely why or citing sources.
9. Play dumb.
10. Associate opponent charges with old news. The debate is over.
11. Establish and rely upon fallback positions. Take the "high road" and "confess" with candor that some innocent mistake was made, but that opponents have seized on the opportunity to blow it all out of proportion and imply greater criminalities which, "just isn't so."
12. Enigmas have no solution.
13. Alice in Wonderland Logic. Use backwards reasoning with an apparent deductive logic in a way that avoids any actual material fact.
14. Demand complete solutions. Ask for the impossible.
15. Fit the facts to alternate conclusions.
16. Call a Grand Jury, Special Prosecutor, or other empowered investigative body. Subvert the process to your benefit and effectively neutralize all sensitive issues without open discussion.
17. Manufacture a new truth. Create your own expert(s), group(s), author(s), leader(s), or influence existing ones willing to forge new ground via scientific, investigative, or social research or testimony which concludes favorably.
18. Create bigger distractions. If the above does not seem to be working to distract from sensitive issues, or to prevent unwanted media coverage of unstoppable events such as trials, create bigger news stories (or treat them as such) to distract the masses.
19. Silence critics. If the above methods do not prevail, consider removing opponents from circulation. This can be by their death, arrest and detention, extortion or destruction of their character by release of blackmail information, or merely by proper intimidation with blackmail or other threats.
20. Vanish. If you are a key holder of secrets or otherwise overly illuminated and you think the heat is getting too hot, to avoid the issues, vacate the kitchen.

When involved in a debate, above all else remain calm. This will resonate with the viewer much more than any words. People are much more effected by the tone of the argument rather than the content. Remember, you are not trying to convince your opponent that you are right. Keep to the points you want to make. You don't have to react to their issues. Keep bringing up your strongest points and make them react. Stick to the point of the debate. Do not get sidetracked into issues that you are not prepared to discuss. When you are aware of the disinformation tactics, call out your opponent every time they use one of these tactics.

With disinformation, we have to bring up the sinister CIA. Operation Mockingbird is a CIA operation that has "important assets" inside EVERY MAJOR NEWS PUBLICATION in this country. They create and coordinate talking points that appear at the same time across all major channels and newspapers. This is done to protect the elite's interests and suppress dissent. Many of the top newsmen are on the Council of Foreign Relations. The most important member of this elite club was Walter Cronkite.

Assassination is another way of dealing with dissent.

-JFK (anti-war, anti-banker)

-RFK (anti-war)

-MLK Jr. (non-violent civil disobedience)

-Gandhi (non-violent civil disobedience)

-John Lennon (anti-war)

-Andrew Jackson (anti-banker)

-James Garfield (anti-banker)

-Abraham Lincoln (anti-banker)

Let's not forget about accidents.

-General Patton (car accident)

-JFK Jr. (airplane accident)

-Ron Brown (airplane accident)

-Senator Paul Wellstone (airplane accident)

-Princess Diana (car accident)

-Congressmen Larry McDonald (airplane accident)

Suicided (murder that looks like suicide).

-Gary Webb

-Bruce Ivins

-David Kelly

-Vince Foster

-James Forrestal

-Colonel Ted Westhusing

-General Tinsley

-Madam Palfrey

-Brandy Britton

-Amschel Rothschild

-SDI Scientists

-Microbiologists

-Free Energy Scientists

-Riad Hamad

Political Assassination

-Eliot Spitzer
-Mark Sanford
-Jack Ryan
-Lou Dobbs
-John Edwards
-General Douglas McArthur

Intellectual Assassination

"Why do you beat your wife?"

-By launching a false claim against someone, it puts that person on defense and causes a chilling effect amongst supporters or a movement. This is a small tactic used by lower threats.

You're a …
-racist
-sexist
-Anti-Semite
-liberal
-communist
-fascist
-Nazi
-pedophile

Your immediate friends are your best defense. Challenge them for proof and sue them. Don't forget about intimidation. The concept of intimidation creates a chilling effect. Bullies never beat up someone just to beat someone up. It is designed to create a chilling effect on the rest so there are no threat to their power.

Psychological Silence-using psychiatry to silence critics.

-R.D. Lainge claimed that Psychiatry was a fake science used as a system of political control. It was a convenient way of locking up those who wanted to break free.
-David Rosen sent 8 normal people to mental hospitals saying that they heard "thud." They were rushed to the psych ward and given heavy psychotropic drugs. The only way was to admit that they were insane and that they were getting better.
-Rosen published his results and the psychiatric community was outraged and attacked Rosen.
-A hospital challenged Rosen to try that again. Over the next month, the hospital identified 41 fakes. Rosen had sent none.

CoIntelPro (Counterintelligence Program)

-Government Program aimed at investigating and disrupting dissident political organizations in the U.S.
-Ex: Black Panthers, Antifa, Black Lives Matter.
-Yet the government use these revolutionary tactics since they are trying to suppress nations like Iran and Venezuela to destabilize their governments.
-Subverting Revolutionary Organizations with infiltration .
-Agents became members to spy, recruit, or act as activists to lead the group astray and discredit the movement.
-Psychological Warfare through false media stories, counterfeit movement materials, and intimidating members and family.
-Legal Harassment from the FBI, Police, IRS, and Inspectors.
-Illegal Methods such as breaking and entering, vandalism, assault and assassinations.

On April 26th, 1976, Congressional investigations on CoIntelPro had two major findings.

-CoIntelPro was more than simply violating the law or the Constitution. In CoIntelPro, the Bureau secretly took the law into its own hands, getting beyond intelligence collection and law enforcement to disrupt, discredit and harass groups and individuals. A law enforcement agency must not secretly usurp the functions of judge and jury, even when the investigation reveals criminal activity. But in CoIntelPro, the Bureau imposed summary punishment, not only on the allegedly violent, but also on the nonviolent advocates of change, such action is the hallmark of the vigilante and has no place in a democratic society.

-The sustained use of such tactics by the FBI in an attempt to destroy MLK Jr., violated the law and fundamental human decency. Another example of CoIntelPro was the Ruby Ridge Siege in 1992.

Torture

I seriously doubt that we are the good guys anymore. Our government has used several torture tactics: drugs, shock, beatings, solitary confinement, stress positions, burning, water boarding, humiliation, hunger and thirst, infestation and straightjackets.

Symbolism

Symbols that represent ideas and emotions. They go right past our rational neo-cortex and hit our emotional Limbic System. Symbols are only as powerful as much as we believe in them. Symbolism is very important to religion. Religion lies in the emotional and spiritual realm, not the rational realm. The All Seeing Eye represents the Eye of Horus, a symbol of protection and Royal Power.

It's important to remember that no matter what the ideology….

-Communism
-Fascism
-Corporatism
-Socialism
-Capitalism
-Democracy
-Monarchy
-Environmentalism

-Christianity
-Islam
-Judaism
-Anarchism
-Feminism
-Conservatism
-Liberalism
-Zionism

The elite profits off of an ideology's promise.

"Men, in order to do evil, must first believe that what they are doing is good."
– Alexander Solzhenitsyn

Those at the top use the scarcity of information, a watchful eye and the allure of power to keep those below in line and following orders. The people at the bottom are recruited with same happy story and fed rah-rah stories throughout their careers.

Those closer to the top usually go along with the scam because they have so much invested in the illusion and can now profit from the knowledge. Remember Enron? Do you really think the people working at Enron knew what the smartest guys in the room were doing?

I bet there are more than a few that knew but went along with the charade, so long as it was profitable. Just like America today, we all know this monetary paradigm will not last, but as long as it is profitable most of us just keep going along until the curtain is pulled.

Another important element of our current centralized pyramid structure is compartmentalization. The ability to sector off people from the big picture and only giving them the information necessary to complete their part of the task. Those that are on the inside know their future success depends on their ability to keep quiet.

This is how tens of thousands of secrets are kept like the Manhattan project. Their conscious is assuaged of guilt because they rationalize that they did not commit the crime because they did not "know" the whole picture. To those whose conscious gets to them, they are either silenced or called crazy.

Give Back to Stay on Top

If the elite and the corrupt can grow their wealth at 11% and the average man can only grow it at 3%, in 70 years the elite would own ALL of the wealth on the planet. The Babylonians saw only 3 outcomes to the consequences of wealth concentration.

1. The need for an external injection of wealth from an outside kingdom through war. They saw this as a temporary solution as more wars would be needed.
2. Wealth redistribution through violent uprising. The serfs kill the top 1% and take their wealth and redistribute it. This is also temporary as the most ruthless revolutionaries will simply fill the void and work to secure their position.
3. Debt Jubilee. This would forgive the majority of debts and freely redistribute their wealth back to the people. This usually started when there was a new King. They did this to secure their position, keep the Serfs happy, and start off the cycle again. If they started out with 1% of the wealth and gained 90%, they would give back 80% and start again at 10% and have monopolies over the system that made them wealthy. From the Serf's perspective, they were given freedom and a change to start over. The productivity grew as the people could keep the fruits of their labor. The key to human happiness is progress.

The next time you play Monopoly, try this. If you are winning the game, have multiple monopolies and no threats of other monopolies. Give away 95% of your cash to the other players. Watch how happy they will be to continue playing the game. Watch how quick you "win" back your money. You can keep doing this over and over. In the end, one person has a monopoly, and everyone is broke.

J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller supported the Communist Revolution in Russia. They did this because they realized that the best way to exploit a society was a monopoly. The best way to get a monopoly is through political change.

Speaking of monopolies, let's take a look at the Opium Monopoly in Afghanistan. In 2001, the Taliban took over Afghanistan and shut down opium production. The U.S. invaded and restored the opium production. The Wall St bankers supported Marx and Lenin. The British supported Hitler and Mussolini. The CIA supported Al Qaeda. Wall St is now supporting the China (CCP).

China is using its $2 trillion plus dollar reserves to sign deals all over the world where the dollar is weak. Remember, under Mao's policies and political purges from 1949-1975 led to 50-70 million deaths through starvation, persecution, prison labor and mass executions.

"The social experiment in China under Chairman Mao's leadership is one of the most important and successful in human history." – David Rockefeller, 1973

In reality, we live in a matrix, a system of control to keep us happily producing for our slave owners, the elite.

"Paper is poverty, it is only the ghost of money, and not money itself."

– Thomas Jefferson

The problem now is that bankers use their power to suck up all the wealth and remain hidden behind their political sock puppets. The people take their frustration out on whatever political party that is in power and hope the other party has no answer. We are never given the choice to throw out the whole system out and put in another system.

A constitutional, free market, republic is the greatest threat to the powerful elite. The Constitution has been replaced with politicians. The 2nd Amendment has been replaced with the Military Industrial Complex. Gold and silver has been replaced with fractional reserve banking. Private education has been replaced with Academia. Freedom of Press and Freedom of Speech has been replaced with Propaganda.

The two families that own the world are the Rockefellers and Rothschilds. The Rockefellers focus on America, War on Terror, Oil Interests, American Hyperpower, U.S. Dollar, N.Y.C. and D.C. The Rothschilds focus on Europe, Climate Change, Banking Interests, One World Government, Euro, London, and Frankfurt.

Mayer Amschel Bauer changed his last name to Rothschild after the Red Shield with a hexagram that hung outside his coin shop in Frankfurt Germany. He lived above his coin shop. He dressed very poorly out of necessity to hide his wealth from tax collectors. He had many hiding places for his gold and jewels since he was the real life Scrooge.

Mayer trained his 5 sons the skills of banking and money creation. He sent his sons to the five capitals of Europe to start family branches of the Rothschild Bank. Mayer went to Frankfurt. Solomon went to Vienna. Nathan went to London. Carl went to Naples. Jacob went to Paris.

These are the 9 Keys to Rothschild wealth and power.

1. Conspire with the family.
2. Multiply profits.
3. Maintain secrecy of true wealth and motives.
4. Never speculate; only sure and quick profit.
5. Control the outcome; own both sides.
6. Think generationally.
7. Be diversified with investments and locations.
8. Utilize monopoly men.
9. Remember the golden rule, he who holds the gold makes the rules.

The Rothschilds are reported to have over $500 Trillion in total wealth. Below is the complete list of all Rothschild owned and controlled banks around the world.

Let's not forget about the Rockefellers. John D. Rockefeller was born in Cleveland, OH in 1839. His first job was as a bookkeeper at 16. At 18, he speculated in commodities. Discovery of oil in Pennsylvania drove John to get involved in oil. When he arrived, he appraised the situation and found it too risky. The big money would come from refining the oil. John built his refinery on the rail line to be efficient. He refined multiple products out of a single barrel of oil. He knew every part of his business and ran it hard. Rockefeller built up his oil empire and by 25, he had one of the largest refineries in the world. John went out to consolidating all of the independent oil men into Standard Oil. He used any means necessary to buy out competition or run them out of business. Standard Oil became so big that the government order it to break up.

The sum of the parts were worth more than the whole, 3-4 times more. This was before the automobile and gasoline. Rockefeller founded Big Pharma to crush Naturopathic medicine, but that's a story for another day.

"In our dreams, people yield themselves with perfect docility to our molding hands. The present education conventions of intellectual and character education fade from their minds, and, unhampered by tradition, we work our own goodwill upon a grateful and responsive folk.

We shall not try to make these people, or any of their children, into philosophers, or men of science. We have not to raise up from them authors, educators, poets or men of letters. We shall not search for great artists, painters, musicians nor lawyers, doctors, preachers, politicians, statesmen-of whom we have an ample supply. The task is simple. We will organize children and teach them in a perfect way the things their fathers and mothers are doing in an imperfect way."

- John D. Rockefeller, General Education Board, 1906

The Rockefellers have many business interests.

-Exxon-Mobil

-Chase Manhattan Bank

-Met Life, Equitable Life and New York Life

-International Harvester

-Marathon Oil

-Inland Steel

-Part owner of the Federal Reserve

The Rockefellers learned that through non-profits they could wield tremendous power and not be restricted by government. “Not for profit” really means “not for taxation.” Philanthropy develops more power than wealth alone can provide. Give money away through foundations to bring more power back into the empire.

Through trust and foundations, the Rockefellers control huge parts of:

-IBM

-Boeing

-International Paper

-3M

-Xerox

-Pfizer

-Merck

-AT&T

-Delta Airlanes

-Motorola

-Honeywell

-HP

-DuPont

-Monsanto

-Chicago School of Business

-Columbia University

-Stanford University

-Carnegie Endowment

-Ford Foundation

-National Education Association

-Planned Parenthood

-National Council of Churches

-United Nations

-IMF

-World Bank

The Rockefellers excelled where the Rothschilds did not in creating the ultimate business model, war. The Rothschilds financed both sides of many wars. The Rockefellers went further in creating, perpetuating, and institutionalizing war. The Rockefellers are the American Establishment and the Military Industrial Complex. Through their foundations and their corporations, the Rockefellers forge American policy to protect and enrich their interests.

The Council on Foreign Relations is the top of the pyramid for policy that is pushed through think tanks, foundations and media. Admiral Chester Ward testified that while he was a member of the CFR for many years, he stated that the goal of the CFR is: "Our purpose should be to abolish our nationality. The submergence of U.S. sovereignty and national independence into an all-powerful one world government."

The Rockefellers are the epitome of the nation's permanent establishment: government change, economic fluctuations and foreign alliances.

These are the 8 Keys to Rockefeller wealth and power.

1. By writing the tax laws they avoid paying taxes.
2. Crush competition.
3. Totally vertically integrated companies.
4. Control both political parties.
5. Use of tax-free foundations to pay no income tax.
6. Diversification of Industrial Interests.
7. Total Control of Media and Agendas.
8. Institutionalization of War.

"Rockefeller's strategy also reveals something fundamental about wealth and power: it does not matter how much money one has; unless it is employed to capture and control those organizations that produce the ideas that guide governments and the people who eventually serve them, the real power of a great fortune will never be realized." – Will Banyon

The Rockefeller's goal is to control the American Government in order to create a world monopoly. The Rothschilds have the same aim, but they are positioning themselves as the alternative to the collapse of the dollar. Both want a New World Order, which is really an old world order of the elite.

"For more than a century, ideological extremists at either end of the political spectrum have seized upon well-publicized incidents to attack the Rockefeller family for the inordinate influence they claim we wield over American political and economic institutions.

Some even believe we are part of a secret cabal working against the best interests of the U.S., characterizing my family and me as 'internationalists' and of conspiring with others around the world to build a more integrated global political and economic structure-one world, if you will. If that's the charge, I stand guilty and am proud of it." – David Rockefeller

Let's dive into the monetary history of Russia. The Soviet Union collapsed in 1991. Between 1991 and 1994, the Ruble lost 95% of its value. In the turmoil, huge state assets went up for sale of hard currency, Dollars and Deutschmarks. Oligarchs were born in the ashes of the collapse. In a few years, these men went from nothing to owning vast oil, gas and mineral reserves, major media outlets, banks, and automobile and aviation factories. From 1992-1994, the cash strapped Boris Yeltsin government was convinced to sell the state assets by Anatoly Chubias. Vouchers were distributed equally among the citizens. Most citizens gave the shares up quickly for food. In 1995, Yeltsin sold off the crown jewels of the Russian empire in the Shares for Loans scheme.

The assets were auctioned off, but there was no competition and was controlled by the Oligarchs. The assets were never returned but the government no longer subsidized them, and they became more productive.

The Russian Oligarchs were all Rothschild agents, no different than Alexander Hamilton, J.P. Morgan and George Soros. The Rothschilds used all of these entrepreneurial Russian Jews to buy up assets with the hard currency from their banks and businesses. Russia was looted of $500 billion, currency destroyed, population rendered desperate, and 2nd largest military rendered useless. The rape of Russia was complete. Over 15 million people died between 1991 and 2000 as the population went from 160 million to 145 million.

The life expectancy for males dropped to 48 years old. Vladimir Putin purged Russia of the Rothschild Oligarchs. He used the power of the state to seize the assets and control of all of the companies that were "stolen." Most of the Oligarchs live near Jacob Rothschild in London and some went to Israel. The state is the only power strong enough to wrestle the power away from the bankers. However, the bankers have eliminated that threat through setting the policy and owning both sides of the political spectrum.

Secret Meetings

In 1997, a new think tank arrived in America known as the Project for a New American Century. Its members were primarily military and energy interests.

-Dick Cheney
-Jeb Bush
-John Bolton
-William Kristol
-Norman Podhoretz
-Elliot Abrams
-Donald Rumsfeld
-Paul Wolfowitz
-Dan Quayle
-William Bennet
-Steve Forbes
-Scooter Libby
-Robert Zoellick

The emphasis was all about full spectrum dominance.

-Massive military spending
-Militarization of space and cyber space
-Projection of missile defenses
-"Safer" nuclear weapons
-A homeland defense department
-High tech unmanned military
-Military bases closer to energy hotspots (Persian Gulf, Caspian Sea)

-Donald Rumsfeld's own notes from PNAC (September 2000) were to "go massive." Shock and awe and to "sweep it all up." Things related and not (Iraq and 9/11). Absent some catastrophic catalyzing event-like a New Pearl Harbor.

"Never waste a good crisis." – Hillary Clinton

Who are some of the key players in the movement towards globalism? The Council on Foreign Relations. It was founded in 1921 by the Rockefellers. They are the premier American Bipartisan think tank designed to destroy American nationalism in order for a New World Order.

Their current project "International Institutions and Global Governance: World Order in the 21st Century" aims to set up global institutions in different levels to foster a global governance, in order to tackle different trans-national problems (terrorism, weapons of mass destruction, infectious diseases),"protecting the environment," promoting energy security, managing the global economy, preventing and responding to violent conflict.

Since the council's founding in 1921, 21 Secretaries of Defense, 19 Secretaries of the Treasury, 17 Secretaries of State, and 15 CIA Directors have hailed from the CFR. The CFR did the planning for the World Bank, IMF and the North American Union. The British Royal Institute of International Affairs, French Institute of International Relations and Bilderbergers are the international equivalents of the CFR. United Nations was discussed by the CFR back in 1942. The UN was founded in 1945 from a $8.5 million donation from John D. Rockefeller to buy the land in Manhattan. The UN is looking to be the seat for global government. The IMF and World Bank are to have a world currency to run the economic aspects of the world government.

"The CFR, dedicated to one-world government, financed by the largest tax-exempt foundations, and wielding such power and influence over our lives in the areas of finance, business, labor, military, education and mass communication media, should be familiar to every American concerned with good government and preserving and defending the U.S. Constitution and our free enterprise system.

Yet the nation's right-to-know machinery, the news media, usually so aggressive in exposures to inform our people, remain conspicuously silent when it comes to the CFR, its members and their activities. Not only does it have influence and power in key decision and making positions at the highest levels of government to apply pressure from above, but it also finances and uses individuals and groups to bring pressure from below, to justify the high level decisions for converting the U.S. from a sovereign Constitution Republic into a servile member of the world dictatorship." – Congressman John R. Rarick

Remember, BlackRock and Vanguard are two massive corporations buying up assets left, right and center. By 2028, they will manage over $20 trillion in assets. At that point, they will own everything.

The Bilderbergers are the most secretive and most powerful group of all. Prince Berhard of the Netherlands was the figure head of the Bilderberg organization. He worked for the Rothschilds and other Collectivists to move towards a one world government. Every year, this group meets in secrecy to discuss their plans.

The Logan Act in the U.S. states that it is illegal for elected officials to meet in private with influential business executives to debate and design public policy. It is a direct conflict of interests to the American people and unpatriotic.

If that wasn't enough, we must talk about another group, the World Economic Forum (WEF). The WEF is an international lobbying organization based in Geneva, Switzerland. It was founded in 1971 by German "economist" Klaus Schwab. The WEF meet every January in Davos, a resort in the eastern Alps region of Switzerland.

Over 3,000 paying members meet for 5 days across 500 sessions. Their latest initiative was the Great Reset. I believe it is connected to the UN Agenda 2030. The WEF 2030 motto, "You will own nothing, and you will be happy." The UN "unites" the governments of 193 countries. The WEF "unites" 1,000 of the world's largest corporations. These groups are joined by a partnership to roll out the UN's sustainable development goals of Agenda 2030. This agenda would control every aspect of our lives.

"This Agenda is a codename for a master plan at the United Nations to change the political and economic system of the world to one of collectivism. And in order to do that people must not be allowed to have independence. They must be dependent on the state otherwise they won't be easily controlled by the state. That means that can't have private property.

They can't have land of their own. They have to live in, preferably, high-rise apartments that are provided to them by the state as a benefit, so to speak, in order to control mankind, you have to get them all into the big cities. You have to get them dependent on the state for food, shelter, electrical power, their water, everything." – G. Edward Griffin

A key part of the Agenda is to push society towards a one world government. The UN and the WEF are working together to accomplish this mission. The WEF partnered with John Hopkins University and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation to carry out Event 201 back in October 2019. It was a simulated event that predicted the coming coronavirus outbreak.

Five months later, the whole world faced the coronavirus on a global level. The WEF played a big part in launching the March 2020 global lockdowns. In July 2021, the WEF hosted Cyber Polygon, an event that forecasted a coming "digital pandemic." The WEF is also pushing for Central Bank Digital Currencies (CBDCs). Social credit scores are an offshoot of this plan. Communist China was the first major country to roll out a CBDC, the Digital Yuan in 2021. 250,000,000 people have given their consent to be taxed, tracked and traced by the state-owned digital wallet inside their communist country.

In China, social credit scores are tied to CBDCs. If you do not comply with the government's demands, they lower your score. They can turn off your money and your life. This form of totalitarian financial control is coming to engulf all of us. The Bank of England is developing a British CBDC to limit what people can and cannot purchase.

The 2023 WEF advised that we need digital identity systems, restructuring the global political system, ending private car ownership in the name of "saving the planet," and banning red meat consumption. They suggested that we eat bugs. The WEF is an unelected, narcissistic, globalist, death cult that wants to strip nations of their sovereignty, centralize global power, global depopulation and dictate how we live. The politicians and media support them without question.

The WEF is spearheading the Fourth Industrial Revolution-a fusion of technologies that is blurring the lines between the physical, digital and biological spheres. This involves creating the infrastructure for the Internet of Things and Internet of Bodies. Every aspect of our daily lives would be controlled by central banks, technocrats, governments, corporation, the WEF, UN and WHO.

The Fourth Industrial Revolution would roll out a global digital ID, microchip implants (Aaron Russo predicted this), gene editing, made to order babies, smart devices, mRNA gene therapy, artificial intelligence and Musk's Neuralink to connect us to a World Brain.

This leads us to the three major components of their Great Reset Agenda. The first part would "improve" governments tax, regulatory and fiscal policies, upgrade trade agreements and create a stakeholder economy to promote more equitable outcomes. The second part would advance equality and sustainability through green urban infrastructure and giving incentives to comply with environment, social and governance (ESG) metrics. The third part would harness the innovations from the Fourth Industrial Revolution to address health and social challenges.

The Great Reset is really about replacing capitalism with communism, issuing universal basic income and destroying small businesses. We saw all of this during the COVID era. However, I don't believe that the globalists will win. People don't want to be controlled. The average person wants to be left alone. We need to bring the names of the globalists to light. Sunshine is the best disinfectant. Below is the WEF public figure list from 2023.

Absence of evidence is not evidence of their absence. Just because you are a good person, keep in mind that evil people do exist. These people at the WEF, Bilderbergers, United Nations, are all arrogant, evil minions who have no right to control our world. Think of these groups as the dreaded jocks from your school days. They take positions of power for the wrong reasons. The only exception would be spaghetti noodle arm Bill Gates of Hell with his revenge of the nerd's agenda with his computer software monopoly and his ineffective mRNA "vaccines."

What is the Matrix?

It all boils down to control. There is real manipulation in this world. The pitch is that we are the land of the free, home of the brave. The reality is that we are slaves to the system.

"Debt is slavery of the free." – Publilius Syrus

"The idea that what we create to 'serve' us, ends up 'ruling' us." – Stefan Molyneux

Early empires conquered other nations to gain the slave labor to fuel their empires. The slaves produced excess goods and services beyond what it took to provide for themselves.

The process of hunting, capturing, breaking in, and owning animals was the same process as owning slaves. The empires that grew the most through slavery were guided by an elite that profited off the system they created.

The elite "farmers" needed a system to capture and maintain their slaves. They had originally an Enforcer Class that was higher up the food chain. They were the slave drivers and military, the muscle behind the organization. When the agricultural technology improved to the point where it produced the capital, it lit the fuse for the start of the Industrial Revolution. The elite "farmers" needed their livestock to go from the country to the cities. These serfs were much more valuable to the elite mass producing capital goods instead of food.

In an effort for the elite farmer to come up with better urban inventory management, many chose very restrictive means of forcing their slaves to work. Other came up with a freer range approach that allowed their slaves the illusion of freedom but never the ability to get off the elite farmer's farm.

This freedom is given to the slaves not to make them free but to make them vastly more efficient. China is a great example of how much more productive serfs can be if you give them more room to move. The Chinese elite changed inventory control from a Communist restrictive one to a state Capitalist one. Look at the economic movements of the 20th century as elite inventory control. The true history was a battle of the most efficient inventory management system. The inventory is us.

At the end of the 20th century, state capitalism proved to be the most competitive as the American system conquered Communism, Nazism, and Monarchies. The American system outproduced all other inventory management systems. The elite allow extra freedoms to their slaves only to perpetuate the illusion of freedom and to increase our productivity for the elite.

Remember the feminist movement? It was funded by the elite to give women more "freedom." Gloria Steinem was a paid CIA operative and the main leader of the feminist movement of the 70's. Now the elite have more workers, less supervision on the children, more abortions, more divorce, and a disintegration of one of the greatest weapons against the elite. Women raised and nurtured the families to raise healthy independent children. They were the glue in communities that was also a strong support system for its members.

To further this illusion of freedom, the elite farmers give the livestock the choice to choose how the farm is run, elections. We can elect our leaders, but we cannot select our leaders. However, we never have the choice to shut down the farm or change the whole system. As productivity grew, so does the parasitic government and the elite classes. Their dependence weighs on the productivity of the serfs.

The elite found an awesome tool to have their cake and eat it too. The elite "farmers" saw the advantage of a Propaganda Class as a tool of getting the slaves to accept their conditions. When you think of celebrities, the Pope and government workers, they are all part of the Propaganda Class. They are really highly paid marketers who sell you lies, not the truth.

They are essential to keeping us entertained since depressed serfs are unproductive serfs. This class peddles distractions and illusions to get us to accept the way things are or buy a little more happiness in an increasingly bleak world. The Propaganda Class tells you whatever you want to believe. You buy into the lies because they make you feel better. The truth is a cold, hard reality. You don't want to believe that you are a slave. You don't want to believe that the products you buy are made by slaves worse off than you. You don't want to believe that the wars we are fighting are for corporate interests. Anything but the truth.

Think of peaceful times as the pre-season. The elite of each nation:

-Implement their game plan (national strategy).

-They draft elections, treaties or allegiances.

-They have contract signings (resources).

-They have their cheerleaders to warm up the fans (news).

-They build up their team (military).

The regular season consists of economic and proxy wars. World War is the Super Bowl because the elite play their best plans and players. They drive up debt, serfs work for free, they waste productive capacity, to capture more slaves and resources.

Eventually, all of these inventory control systems fail because they are unnatural creations and immoral. What's the difference between a Communist and a Socialist? A Communist is a Socialist with an AK-47 in a hurry.

How did we become slaves?

In the past, it was war or societal structure. What works for individuals works for societies. All of these techniques below are used to mentally abuse an individual. They can also be institutionalized.

-Someone constantly putting you down (school, media).

-Someone beating you up (military, police).

-Someone stealing from you (government, Wall St).

There are two main ways to enslave a free society: shock and gradualism. With shock, there is economic shock and military shock. For economic shock, we had the Great Depression, the collapse of the Soviet Union (17 Oligarch Billionaires vs. Millions of citizens) along with the bursting of the Housing and Stock Market bubbles.

For military shock, the U.S. government funded research on how to get prisoners to talk. They experimented with various torture techniques: sleep deprivation, water boarding, stress positions, isolation, hallucinogenic drugs and electroshock therapy. In addition, we witnessed 9/11, the invasion of Iraq and Afghanistan and various coups.

What about the shock here at home after 9/11? In our shock we accepted:

-Two Wars, Iraq and Afghanistan

-Patriot Act (electronic surveillance of citizens)

-Privatizing of our military

-Department of Homeland Security

-Guantanamo Bay, Abu Ghraib and Torture

-$2 Trillion missing from the Department of Defense

(apparently wrinkly Donald Rumsfeld just lost it)

-Trillion dollar budget deficits

-Militarization of local police

-Airline screening (free groping), No Fly Lists

The main reason why shock is applied to societies is profit. The elite position themselves before events or to benefit their already established positions. They are after control. All psychopaths have delusions of grandeur. They want more power over inferior people. They want to destroy their competition. There is no remorse along with a lack of empathy. The elite manipulate a crisis to drive the masses into the slaughterhouse faster.

One drawback from shock (as a power tool) is that it's temporary in nature. Remember the boogeyman Osama Bin Laden and the colorful terror alerts? The subject is never to have a sense of normalcy to regain their mental footing. Education and truth are enemies of mental shock. Another enemy of shock is people getting together and talking. Issues are less ominous when people can share educated experiences and feel less alone.

With gradualism, the elite use this machine every day. You may not notice it, but it is there gradually taking away freedoms and wealth. Yuri Bezmenov, a former KGB agent, points out the 4 steps to ideological subversion.

1. Demoralization is a process that takes 15-30 years (1 generation). Morality and integrity are manipulated by the media and academic. Younger generations embrace Marxism and Leninism.
2. Destabilization is key for reinforcing the intrusive nature of government. Citizens are bribed with welfare benefits, entitlement programs and helicopter stimulus money (it's ok you don't need to work a real job).
3. We are hit with a Crisis that may take up to 6 weeks to revolutionize the change in power. A massive event upsets and divides the country, creating widespread panic. Examples would include the upheaval in 2011 in Egypt and Libya.
4. With Normalization, we reach the final step where people accept Communism. This step can take up to 20 years.

"America is like a healthy body and its resistance is threefold: its patriotism, its morality, and its spiritual life. If we can undermine these three areas, America will collapse from within."
- Joseph Stalin

I am sure that you can relate to the kids growing up in the 1930's, 40's, 50's, 60's and 70's.

First, we survived being born to mothers who smoked and/or drank while they carried us. They took aspirin, ate blue cheese dressing, tuna from a can and didn't get tested for diabetes. Our baby cribs were covered with bright colored lead-based paints.

We had no childproof lids on medicine bottles, doors or cabinets and when we rode our bikes, we had no helmets. As children, we would ride in cars with no seatbelts or air bags. We drank water from the garden hose and not from a bottle. We shared one soft drink with four friends from 1 bottle and no one died.

We ate cupcakes, white bread, real butter, fizzy pop with real sugar.

We weren't overweight because we were always outside playing! We would leave home in the morning, play all day, as long as we were back when the streetlights came on. No one was able to reach us all day and we were OK. We didn't have mobile phones.

We fell out of trees, got cut, skinned our knees, broke bones and there were no lawsuits from these accidents. We ate homemade mudpies from real organic dirt. We had BB guns, made up games with sticks and we did not poke out very many eyes.

Little League had tryouts and not everyone made the team. Those who didn't had to learn to deal with disappointment! When the champ was crowned, the rest of the teams didn't get plastic participation trophies. The idea of a parent bailing us out if we broke the law was unheard of.

They actually sided with the law!

This generation produced some of the best risk-takers, problem solvers and inventors ever. The past 50 years have been an explosion of innovation and new ideas. We had freedom, failure, success and responsibility, and we learned how to deal with it all!

Fast forward to today. The U.S. is being destroyed from the inside by ten major cartels.

Big Pharma

-Pfizer

-Moderna

-Merck

-Sanofi

-GSK

-Astra Zeneca

-Johnson & Johnson

They control the FDA and CDC. Scientism is the new religion. Endless amounts of drugs that do not actually cure our ailments. "It's just genetic" is the allopathic mantra that programs the masses.

Big Finance

-Goldman Sachs

-J.P. Morgan Chase

-Berkshire Hathaway

-Citigroup

-BlackRock

-Vanguard

-Federal Reserve

They control the U.S. Treasury. Cheap money for them but expensive for the rest of us (insane credit card interest). Don't forget all of the bubbles and busts on the rigged stock market.

Big Philanthropy

-Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation

-Soros Foundation

-Rockefeller Foundation

-Bloomberg Philanthropies

-Tom Steyer

-Ford Foundation

They control the creative and artistic. They shape public opinion by exploiting oppressed groups. Remember the Black Lives Matter "mostly peaceful" fire-based protests?
They destroyed business, practiced witchcraft and their trademark fist raising is really the hand salute for communism.

Military Contractors

-Lockheed Martin

-Boeing

-Raytheon Technologies

-General Dynamics

They control the Department of Defense. Never ending wars, a poor withdrawal from Afghanistan and a new Cold War with Russia.

Big Oil

-ExxonMobil

-Shell

-Chevron

-BP

They control the Department of the Interior and DoD. Oil and gas leases on public lands pay 8% royalties. The U.S. sides with leaders in the Middle East and overthrows leaders who try to increase royalty rates.

Big Food & Big Agriculture

-PepsiCo

-Tyson

-Nestle

-Kraft

-Cargill

-ADM

They control the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Junk food for all. Obesity is increasing every year. What else is new?

Big Chemical

-Dow

-ExxonMobil

-Dupont

-Eastman

-Bayer

-Syngenta

They control the EPA. Over 80,000 chemicals on the market with no safety data.

Big Wireless

-Verizon

-T-Mobile

-AT&T

-Apple

-Samsung

They control the Federal Communications Commission. "I'm on my phone" is the new trend.

Big Media

-AT&T

-Comcast

-Disney

-Paramount

-Netflix

-Facebook

-TikTok

-Google

-Microsoft

They control our attention. Society is definitely plugged into the Matrix. These groups control us. The U.S. government exists to serve the cartel's interests. The real challenge is to find a way to replace our current corrupt system with a better system. Look at the kids today: glued to their mobile phones, bingeing on video games, childhood obesity skyrocketing, etc.

This is gradualism. Slowly but surely the younger generations are becoming the biggest bunch of soft, weak and pathetic snowflakes. They melt under pressure. Speaking of gradualism, let's take a closer look at how the elite have transformed and perverted our American free market, constitutional republic. This slimeball Karl Marx wrote The Communist Manifesto with 10 key steps to destroy free markets and constitutional republics (since he was a psychopathic parasite who didn't work a real job).

1. Abolition of private property and the application of all rents of land to public purposes.

"Without property rights, no other rights are possible." – Ayn Rand

-Property Taxes

-Zoning Laws

-Bureau of Land Management

-Environmental Regulations

-Building Permits and Inspections

-Eminent Domain Abuse

2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

-Income tax (federal, state, county, local)

-Social Security tax

The harder we work, the more we pay.

This eliminates threats to the elite.

The elite don't pay taxes since they use tax-exempt foundations to hold their wealth.

3. Abolition of all rights of inheritance.

-Estate taxes

4. Confiscation of the property of all emigrants and rebels.

-Government seizures

-Tax liens

-IRS confiscation of property (levying bank accounts) without due process

-Asset forfeiture laws

5. Centralization of credit in the hands of the state by means of a national bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly. The privately owned Federal Reserve issues fiat currency (federal reserve notes) and maintains the practice of fractional reserve banking.

6. Centralization of the means of communications and transportation in the hands of the state.

-Federal Communication Commission

-Federal Department of Transportation

-Federal Aviation Administration

-Mandated Driver's License

-Traffic and Transportation Laws

7. Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the state, the cultivation of waste lands, and the improvement of the soil in accordance with a common plan.

-Department of the Interior

-Department of Commerce and Labor

-EPA

-Bureau of Land Management

-National Park Service

-Department of Energy

8. Equal liability of all to labor. Establishment of industrial armies especially for agriculture.

-Minimum wage

-Affirmative action

-Government work projects

-Elites moving productive capacity to slave labor countries.

-Destroying the economy by enslaving a population with debt, driving down wages as the job situation becomes worse.

9. Combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries, gradual abolition of the distinction between town and country, by a more equitable distribution of population over the country.

-Our food industry is a corporate giant.

-Food quality has suffered dramatically in the last century.

-Americans have lost the ability to feed themselves.

-China has forced relocation programs. Will the elite activate the FEMA camps?

10. Free education for all children in public schools. Abolition of children's factory labor in its present form. Combination of "education" with industrial production.

-Public education (public indoctrination)

-Train the children to love their slavery.

-Suppress children who rebel. How many kids are now strung out on Ritalin?

-Encourage students to load up on debt to go for more "education" to ensure better jobs.

-Encourage those who do not have entrepreneurial spirit to work for the government.

It's time to open your eyes and stop supporting a system that is working towards your slavery. The elite want a poor and uneducated society filled with poverty, pollution and a police state.

"They who would give up an essential liberty for temporary security, deserve neither liberty or security." – Benjamin Franklin

You in the Present, is represented by the Liberty to do as you wish. If you are enslaved, it limits the choices you can make in the present. You in the Future, is represented by your Life. If you are killed, it ends your ability to make choices in the future. You in the Past, is represented by the fruits of your labor. Your legitimately acquired property is the manifestation of your freedom of choice in the past.

When your property is stolen, your freedom to do as you choose is severely limited. The elite use these three assaults on your past life, present liberty and the future pursuit of happiness. They your attack your past life with theft through inflation, asset forfeiture, eminent domain and inheritance tax. They attack your present with slavery through income taxes, debt enslavement, the draft and prison. They attack your future with murder in the form of the death penalty, war, abortion, and poisoning (environment, food, drugs).

The Constitution is the defender of your past life, present liberty, and your future pursuit of happiness. Article 1, Section 10.1: No state shall emit bills of credit (federal reserve notes) and only gold and silver shall be legal tender. An actual dollar is defined as 371.25 grains of fine silver (or 0.77 troy ounces of silver).

1st Amendment

Freedom of religion, speech, press, and assembly; the right to petition the government. You have the right to speak out against the government. This is the backbone of the Freedom movement.

2nd Amendment

A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed. This is for the people to provide the ultimate defense against a tyrannical government.

4th Amendment

This protects against unreasonable searches and seizures.

5th Amendment

You don't have to testify against yourself. No loss of property without due process. Anything you say can and will be used against you. Where's my lawyer?

6th Amendment

This provide you with the right to a fair and speedy trial.

8th Amendment

No excessive fines or cruel and unusual punishments.

10th Amendment

Powers not delegated to the states are reserved to the states. The state have the power to nullify anything that comes from the federal government. This is the key to roll back our out of control federal government.

"Necessity is the plea for every infringement of human freedom. It is the argument of tyrants; it is the creed of slaves." – William Pitt

Governments know that disarmament is a precursor for genocide. Most of the deaths in the 20th century were NOT due to war. They are due to governments slaughtering their own defenseless people.

"A people armed and free, forms a barrier against the enterprises of ambition and is a bulwark for the nation against foreign invasion and domestic oppression." – James Madison

The Committee of 300

This committee is the by-product of the British East India Company's Council of 300. The East India Company was started by the British Royal Family in 1600. They made enormous profits in the Chinese opium drug trades. This allowed them to become the largest company worldwide.

With its many tentacles, the Committee of 300 runs the world. They are one of the many forces behind the "New World Order." The Committee of 300 is one of the groups that can be classified as "they." Sunshine is the best disinfectant. Below is a chart to break down the complex layers of the global elite.

Financial Collapse Timeline

"History records that the money changers have used every form of abuse, intrigue, deceit, and violent means possible to maintain their control over governments by controlling money and it's issuance." – James Madison, former President of the United States

"Whoever controls the volume of money in any country is absolute master of all industry and commerce." – James A. Garfield, former President of the United States

Financial Panic of AD 33

Coin Exchange Crisis of 692

Byzantine emperor, Justinian II, refuses to accept Arab gold coins from Umayyad Caliphate. This leads to the Battle of Sebastopolis and a massive revolt of taxpayers who burned bankers and the emperor had his nose cut off in front of the masses.

Tulip Mania of 1637

An economic bubble that burst in Holland after the exploitation of the tulip flowers.

Massachusetts Bay Colony

The Massachusetts Bay Colony was the first group in the nation to mint their own silver coins in 1652. Fast forward to 1690, paper money was used as a source of IOUs or bills of credit based on the full faith of the US government. The Colony was the first to issue the first wave of paper money in the USA. These notes were used to fund the war against King William in Canada.

Bengal Bubble of 1769

This event was caused by the overvaluation of East India Company stock from 1757-1769 and led to the Great East Indian Crash of 1769. Robert Clive and the company was given a financial bailout by the crown in England.

Panic of 1796-1797

Falling credit markets in Great Britain and the U.S. sparked the Panic of 1796-1797. Systemic land speculation went out of control in 1796. Imagine the real estate bubbles based on greedy speculation in America.

Danish Bankruptcy of 1813

The Napoleonic Wars was a major financial burden for Denmark's economy. As a result, Denmark went on to with their economic policy of currency devaluation. Denmark then declared bankruptcy on January 5, 1813. Sadly, this was an economic crisis that lasted from 1813-1818. The Danish government had two objectives: stabilize the economy and reinstate silver as their primary currency.

This didn't last for long as the printing presses infused excessive amounts of bank notes (paper money) into the Danish economy to cover wartime loans. Silver's value was massively diluted, and paper money filled its spot. When it doubt, just print more money!

Panic of 1819

The Panic of 1819 was the first nationwide financial crisis in the U.S. The severity snowballed because of overspeculation of public land, along with virtually unlimited paper money printing. The Second Bank of the United States failed to provide enough gold in their vaults to back up their bank notes. They cut back on farm and business loans in 1818. As a result, there was widespread bankruptcies and crazy amounts of unemployment.

Panic of 1837

Once again, there was another financial crisis in the U.S. that sparked an economic depression that lasted until the mid-1840s. Outrageous speculative lending in the Western United States, declining cotton prices and a collapsing land bubble all fueled the crisis. The U.S. economy collapsed, and bank runs followed in 1837. Banks in NYC ran out of gold and silver!
The recession lasted for years. Half of all U.S. banks collapsed, businesses closed, and there was massive unemployment.

Wall Street Crash of 1929

This was one giant stock market collapse, the biggest one in U.S. history. There was an estimated 16 million shares sold on the NYSE on October 29, 1929. The Great Crash sparked the start of the Great Depression. The following year, 1,352 banks held over $853 million in deposits. In 1931, 2,294 banks failed with $1.7 billion in deposits. In addition, 28,285 business failed nationwide (at a daily rate of 133 closing down in 1931).

The Great Depression

With the Wall Street Crash of 1929, the Great Depression devastated Americans for the decade of 1929 to 1939. From 1929 to 1932, global GDP fell by 15%. International trade fell by 50% and U.S. unemployment rose to 23%. The effects of the Great Depression lasted until the start of World War II.

Argentina

This has been the highest inflation rate since 1982. Argentina has not been a stranger to high inflation rates. In 1946, President Juan Peron launched a government stimulus program to ramp up the money printing presses. He was also a raging liberal who believed in philosophy of Keynesian economics.

Argentina has faced a roller coaster of long inflation cycles, with a spike of hyperinflation in the 1980s and 1990s. By 2006, the inflation rate was 9.8%. The following year it jumped to 25.7.In 2021, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Argentina's inflation rate was 50.9%. Reckless government spending has been a major driver in the surge of inflation.

Between 2006 and 2015, government spending increased 36%. As a result, the central bank monetized the Treasury's deficit. This would add even more wood on the fire for raging inflation.

In 2001, the Argentinian government rolled out more social programs, subsidized firms and ramped up public investment. Drafted as a "rescue plan," government spending was used in a similar way to that of the U.S. In addition, Argentina made the mistake of devising a second plan known as the scapegoat policy. Instead of acknowledging their failed fiscal policy, the government slammed the corporations for driving up prices.

It was a rather convenient excuse to use. Apparently, in every government, no one is held accountable. Let's just print off more money. That will work this time for sure….

Cyprus

Between 2012 and 2013, the Cyprian government lost their mind. In their infinite wisdom, they robbed citizen bank accounts to pay for the country's financial bailout. In Cyprus, crime does pay off. Citizens with over 100,000 Euros faced a 10% "levy." Basically, one day you have 100,000 Euros and the next day you only have 90,000 Euros because of reasons. Remember, anyone with a bank account, worldwide, it is classified as an "unsecured creditor." The banks can literally steal your money if they cannot meet their fiscal obligations.

Venezuela

Inflation has been a chronic problem for Venezuela. Thanks to the Nicolas Maduro administration, the inflation rate was a staggering 800% in 2016. By 2018, this rate shot up to 80,000%. This would give Weiner Germany a run for their money. Today, the inflation has surpassed 380,000%. According to CNN (the Communist News Network), many families have sold off their daughters into prostitution to neighboring countries Colombia just to generate extra spending money.

Over three million Venezuelans, 1/10th of the nation's population, have left their home country. Sadly, this is officially the largest human displacement in South American history. Massive food shortages have been a huge factor for this crisis. In 2014, Venezuela's currency, the bolivar, has been largely depended on oil exports (they have one of the largest oil reserves of any country worldwide). To put this into perspective, over 90% if their export earnings was from oil.

Before Maduro, Hugo Chavez launched lofty social programs between 1999 to 2013 to fight poverty. Once again, government spending went off the rails. Oil prices dropped and international demand for the Venezuelan oil crashed. This sent the country into a downward spiral. When Chavez was succeeded by Maduro, his "solution" was to print even more money. With more paper money floating around, the bolivar's value was pushed down even further. As the crisis grew, the hyperinflation skyrocketed. Venezuelans looked for safety in the US dollar which destroyed the bolivar even more. The government issued currency controls to discourage the use of US dollars. As a result, there was now an illegal market for US dollars.

In 2018, the official exchange rate was scary: 250,000 bolivars to US $1. Venezuelans were migrated to Colombia just to use ATMs to exchange Venezuelan bolivars for US dollars. Then they would go back to Venezuela and exchange dollars for bolivars to make a hefty profit. The Venezuelan currency lost so much value that cash was used as toilet paper since buying toilet paper became too expensive for the average consumer. Maduro devalued the bolivar by 95% in an effort to stabilize the currency. The devaluations led to even lower levels of trust in the government.

As of 2018:

-1 roll of toilet paper cost 2,600,000 bolivars

-1 kilogram of cheese cost 7,500,000 bolivars

-2.4 kg chicken cost 14,600,000 bolivars

U.S. Inflation

"Inflation is not caused by the action of private citizens, but by the government: by an artificial expansion of the money supply required to support deficit spending. No private embezzlers or bank robbers in history have ever plundered people's savings on a scale comparable to the plunder perpetrated by the fiscal policies of statist governments." – Ayn Rand

People think inflation is rising prices. When we see rising prices, it is merely a symptom of inflation. Inflation occurs when the money supply is created in excess of the available goods and services of an economy. The more dollars that are in circulation, the less they are worth. Prices of the goods are not going up, but the value of the dollar is going down, and you need more dollars to buy the same goods.

Gold was valued at $20.65/oz under the gold standard for 97 years. The dollar was as good as gold. A new Corvette would cost $60,000 or 60 oz. gold. If the dollar was as good as gold, the Corvette would cost $1,200, meaning there is $58,800 in inflation built into the car's cost. The dollar only has 2% of the purchasing power it once had.

The real sin of inflation is that it is a regressive tax on Americans. By printing more money, the dollars we save and earn become worth even less. It is wealth confiscation. This benefits the rich since their cost of living goes up, their assets go up further and tax-free in some cases. You can always bank on more inflation as long as we keep our current system in place.

The well connected elite can usually be the first to spend the new money to buy up more assets before inflation accelerates. Perception is reality. When people believe that there is little inflation, they tend to save their money. When inflation expectations are high, people buy now while their money still has purchasing power. This fuels even more inflation.

The acceleration of spending is known as money velocity. People tend to hoard products, speculate and panic buy. It's important to be prepared for anything. Remember the toilet paper shortage in 2020? Food and energy go up twice as fast as other assets during high inflation.

By understating inflation:

-They lower interest rates on debt it must pay for.

-They lower inflation adjusted payments it makes to social security and government employees.

-Keeps the consumer inflation expectations under control.

-Allows the government to spend more money that it does not have.

-Strengthens the dollar to allow higher than normal purchasing power.

-Keeps American voters passive as benign inflation is not an issue.

By increasing inflation (deficit spending):

-Buys real goods for worthless pieces of paper.

-Lowers the real value of debt.

-Pays for larger government without raising taxes.

-Forces mothers into the work force.

-Breaks up the family resulting in more power to the state.

-Asset prices rise along with all of the sales and property taxes.

-Forces families into higher tax brackets.

-Taxes money sitting in savings accounts.

-For a short time, people think they are getting rich.

For all of the car fans, let's take a look at car buying throughout history.

Federal Minimum Wage

1950-$0.75/hr.

Average cost of a new car $1,750 (2,333 hours of work).

1980-$3.10/hr.

Average cost of a new car $7,210 (2,325 hours of work).

2009-$7.25/hr.

Average cost of a new car $23,907 (3,298 hours of work).

The main way the government lies to us is through the Consumer Price Index (CPI). It was originally a collection of everyday goods that kept track of price fluctuations. This is a lie since if they wanted measure inflation, they would measure the money supply, not the symptom of inflation. They lie with financial tricks such as Hedonic Adjustment, Substitution, Weighting and Subtraction.

When all else fails, they don't count the price of food, energy or taxes at all. The government can export inflation by sending money overseas, so it never hits our economy. Money is pushed into stocks which further destroys the average investor through crashes. Quantitative Easing (QE) is used to increase the quantity of money to lower rates to near zero interest rates (aka easy money). QE + deficit spending is designed to lower the value of money and cause asset inflation which leads to bubbles.

Our current monetary system is one big Ponzi scheme based on debt, death and deception. Charles Ponzi created a fraudulent investment operation in 1919 that paid returns to separate investors from their own money or money paid by additional investors, rather than from any actual profit earned. If you invested $10,000, the scammer would pay you 15% or $1,500 back to you and use the remaining money for their other investors and pocketing the majority for himself. The investor gets a paper showing the principal and "profit." The key is to have the victims bring in even more clients based off the above market returns. It is a CONfidence game. Bernie Madoff made off with $65 billion.

The government has spent all of the money and left only IOU's. We are currently exchanging little monopoly federal reserve notes that are the ghost of real money. Inflation and taxes eat up any financial returns you think you are getting. The current economic order is built to fail. It is designed to reap the greatest profits from the greatest amount of people. It is made to centralize power and once the economic system collapses that power will create a New World Order for the elite to rule without the threat of liberty.

"The value of goods are expressed in money. While the value of money is expressed in goods. Money and goods are clearly not the same things but are exact opposite things. Goods are wealth while money is a claim on wealth which you do not have.

Goods are an asset; money is a debt. If goods are wealth; money is clearly not wealth, it is negative wealth, may be even anti-wealth." – Carroll Quigley

"The job of the Federal Reserve is to take away the punch bowl just as the party gets going." – William McChesney Martin, former Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors

This is the opposite of what the Fed is doing now. They bailout, provide funds and lower interest rates. They keep us drunk on easy money and never allow for a real monetary hangover to occur (recession or depression). The Fed acts as the guy that brings cocaine to a beer party to keep the party going. Now they want a global central bank to bring crack for us to keep partying. The debt junkies fear the day of reckoning.

The can is kicked down the road. However, recession and depression is on its way. The Plunge Protection Team (PPT) is just a well disguised bunch of crooks who buy shares to secretly prop up the market. These crooks include: the Federal Reserve, SEC, CFTC, National Economic Council at the White House, U.S. Treasury, J.P. Morgan, Citibank and Goldman Sachs. The PPT has no special powers. Debts get larger, mal investment gets worse and the recovery takes longer. War creates even more wealth for the elite. An honest monetary system allows for innovation and quality work. A corrupt monetary system will bankrupt merchants and starves labor into slavery. Meanwhile, the elite add assets upon assets to centralize control worldwide.

This monetary system provides endless profits for bankers and politicians while the average person doesn't realize how bad they are getting screwed. True wealth is not measured by what you have, rather, by what you give. True wealth is created three ways.

1. Transmutation-those that harvest raw materials and energy of the earth (farmers, miners, loggers, oil drillers, fishermen).
2. Transformation-those that add value to those materials (engineers, mechanics, laborers, designers).
3. Transportation-bringing valuable goods from one region to another region.

Insurance, banking, taxes, marketing, education, medical and legal professions are secondary since they are parasitic industries. What happens when someone goes bankrupt?

-A person gets a bad mark on their credit report which prevents opportunities of future credit or makes it more costly.

-A bank writes it off as a loss. Since the debt was created out of thin air, no real wealth is lost.

-Losses do count against the bank's equity.

-If the losses are in excess of the bank's equity, the FDIC steps in and guarantees the deposits up to a certain amount.

-Taxpayers pay for that bank bailout on the too big to fail banks.

Systemic failure is when the Ponzi scheme is threatened and there is not enough money to pay the debt. Liquidity is added to the economy by printing off more money. Liquidity is usually added by lowering interest rates which encourages private debt consumption.

When interest rates near 0%, the private central bank uses quantitative easing to increase the liquidity in the system with no demand.

Money is created out of thin air to buy up assets on the open market. This destroys the value of the dollar. Our whole world boils down to labor vs. capital. Both are needed for a productive society. Both need to be treated fairly, protected and share the burdens. Income taxes on labor 40%-50%. Capital gains taxes 15%-20%. A consumption tax would allow people to save tax-free. When you are ready to buy stuff, you spend your money and then pay taxes.

The Banker's Guide to Owning Everything

1. Become a majority lender in an economy of people with assets you want.
2. Encourage debt by loaning generously while securing assets of interest.
3. Loosen lending standards until the asset you seek to capture are attached (this makes the economy debt dependent).
4. Once debts are significant for the bulk of the population, sharply tighten lending standards (economic shock which leads to the onset of deflation).
5. Backstop losses with public guarantees (Fannie and Freddie guarantees for example).
6. Permit default without risk on the assets you wish to seize to maximize wealth transfer (stall foreclosure, repossession order, etc.).
7. Stall the economy to maximize default positions and deplete private liquidity.
8. Successfully ratchet the economy downhill, while bettering secured positions.
9. In a series of large actions, seize all security for default. Target the assets of greatest interest first.
10. Transfer asset ownership but retain prior owners as renters where possible (this reduces public blowback and helps maintain the asset for resale).
11. Once the bulk of assets are transferred, write them down to leverage the public financial backstop.
12. Buy up as many remaining assets on the cheap (buying when there is blood in the streets).
13. Hyper-inflate to destroy the external claims on wealth. This destroys treasuries, government bonds, currency, etc. This will ensure a free title on new assets. Often, war is on the horizon.
14. Stabilize the currency or devise a new one. Resume lending at a reasonable pace. Sell the assets back, secured of course, at your own chosen price in the new currency. Hyper-inflation is only a risk to the wealthy if the population has the assets.

If your mind was not blown by all of the above examples of financial collapses, let's take a deeper look at inflation over the last 60 years in the U.S.

In 1964:

Average House $20,500

New Car $3,500

First Class Stamp $0.05

College “Education” $1,570

Average Annual Income $6,000

Gallon of Milk $0.95

Gallon of Gasoline $0.30

Fast forward to 2012:

Average House $160,000 (780% increase from 1964 prices)

New Car $30,000 (850% increase)

First Class Stamp $0.45 (900% increase)

College “Education” $42,098 (2,680% increase)

Average Annual Income $46,000 (766% increase)

Gallon of Milk $4 (421% increase)

Gallon of Gasoline $3.79 (1,263% increase)

Fast forward to 2022:

Average House $428,000 (63% increase from 2012 prices)

New Car $40,000 (25% increase)

First Class Stamp $0.58 (23% increase)

College “Education” $43,775 (4% increase)

Average Annual Income $63,214 (28% increase)

Gallon of Milk $4.41 (10% increase)

Gallon of Gasoline $4.49 (16% increase)

To put these numbers into perspective, an item that cost $10,000 in 1964 would cost $69,527.06 in 2010. The Inflation Adjusted Purchasing Power of 1964 $10,000 would be $1,442.55. Hedonic Adjustment, Substitution, Weighting and Subtraction are all financial tricks used in these government calculated numbers. Let’s say that you are facing a 5% inflation rate. In 20 years, 64% of your purchasing power would be confiscated. This jumps to a 100% confiscation of your purchasing power over your lifetime. A new currency is introduced occasionally to ensure that no one escapes.

Since 1964, if you saved $10,000 face value of silver, 7,150 troy oz. at $30/oz. would be worth $214,500 in 2010. What cost $214,500 in 2010 would cost $30,851.30 in 1964. The bottom line is the dollar has lost over 95% of its purchasing power in the paper value since 1964. In 2022, the REAL Inflation Adjusted high price of silver is $675/oz.

In addition to financial collapses, we have to take note of the national debt. These fiat dollars are simply digits on a screen, created out of thin air. Specifically, we will be looking at the USA national debt throughout history. By the end of the second quarter in 2022, the national debt was about $30.6 trillion. The second-quarter GDP of $24.9 trillion, the debt-to-GDP ratio was about 123%.

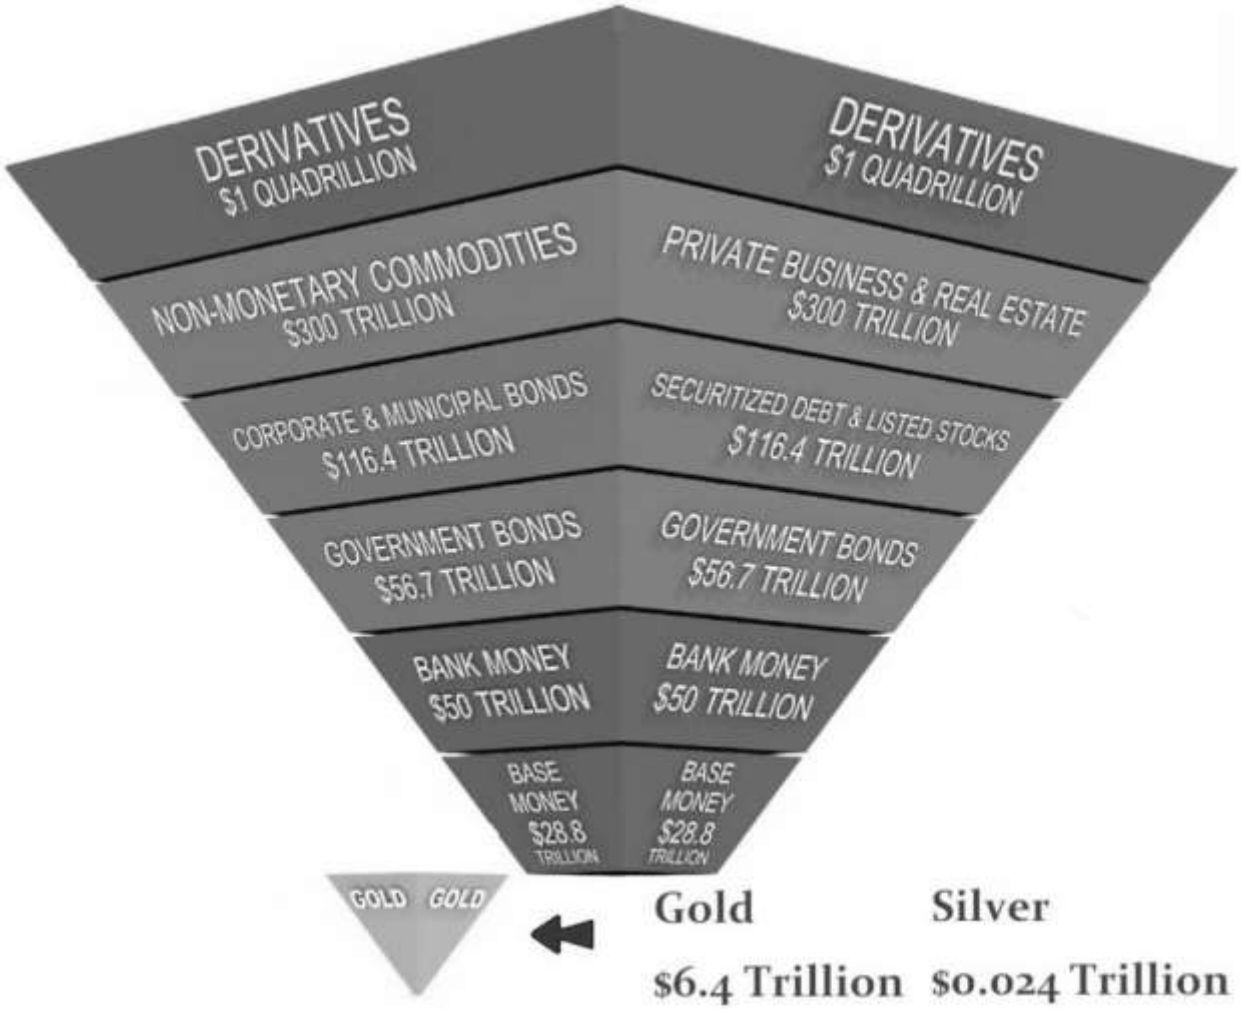
As of 2022, the national debt has surpassed $31 trillion. The paper to silver ratio (where silver should likely be priced) is $871/troy oz. If you want to see an even deeper dive into the unbelievable debt levels, check out www.usdebtclock.org.

If you need even more proof of a coming nationwide collapse of the USA, and likely an international collapse, let’s take a deep dive into Derivatives.

What is a Derivative?

Derivatives are IOU’s that are backed by even more IOU’s.

In the picture below, we have Exeter's Pyramid. This graphic shows the financial risk from the safest, GOLD & SILVER; to the least safe: Derivatives. The derivatives at the top have the highest risk of default while gold and silver have the lowest risk of default. For the precious metals, if you hold them, you own it with zero counter party risk.



When the derivative market collapses, we will see the end of our financial world. U.S. Banks owe over 2 QUADRILLION dollars in derivatives. Remember, the term "unsecured creditors" comes to mind. When a bank needs extra cash, they have the power to "bail-in" needed funds from their customers!

Don't believe me?

Look what happened to all of the countries on the financial collapse timeline that faced economic chaos on a massive level.

The next logical step is to realize that once you lose all your money, is "your money" even safe in this "bank." Keep plenty of cash out of the bank, have silver put away and perhaps look into opening an account with a small credit union. Check to see if your bank is on the list below.

Money Does Buy Happiness

"A desire for riches is really the desire for a richer, fuller and more abundant life, and that desire is praiseworthy. Our first duty in life is not to be poor." - Wallace D. Wattles

As a child, I remember hearing, "we can't afford it," over and over. It always seemed like we never had enough. There was too much month left over at the end of the money. I am sure that we have all been in that situation. When you don't have enough money to cover the bills, times get scary. To say that I was a shy kid living in horrific poverty was a complete understatement. My parents had more kids than they could afford. The vast majority of people that I see today shouldn't have kids.

I realize that this a dark generalization of society, but it is historically accurate.

It is ironic how the things we do as kids can grow and show up later in adulthood. I quickly realized that I wanted to be a successful man. Food and money became two major interests in my life. It was always about having more choices. If I had an infinite amount of food and money, what would I do? I would share it. I wanted to be "the Man with the Money." As a child, I desperately craved the feeling of control. I had to escape poverty.

Putting groceries back on the shelf was not an option anymore.

"Poverty causes people to lie, cheat, steal and even kill. There is nothing spiritual about poverty. Poverty is not a lack of things; it is a state of mind. Every man and woman of integrity should earn their own living in the fair and free trade of value for value with others."

– Randy Gage

There are key differences with regards to the classes of rich people, poor people and middle-class people. The poor buy "stuff" with their shiny object syndrome so that they can fill the dark holes in their life. As a society, we are programmed to be poor. The bell rings and we're off. Don't ever talk about money. Kids are not taught how to balance a checkbook (since math is way too hard). No one should strive to be poor.

P assing

O ver

O pportunities

R epeatedly

It's better to be rich since you have more choices. Often, poor people have a fear of success, their life is horrible, living quiet lives of desperation because "that's just the way that it is."

Real

The middle class buy liabilities, mainly new cars (outrageously expensive leases) and new McMansions, as a status symbol to impress their colleagues who are docile duds from the suburbs (keeping up with the Jones). Don't forget the washed up dude bros who always has his hat on backwards driving his brand new BMW. The rich buy assets that line their pockets; they focus on cashflow. They are looking for a return of their capital and then a return on their capital. When money comes in, their fiscal philosophy is quite simple.

"Wealth is a state of mind—a belief. It is a constant balance of freedom, finances, experiences, relationships, happiness, purpose, growth, and contribution. It is a journey that never ends."
- Josh Brown

The rich tend to invest their money in business and real estate. Investing always comes first. They buy assets. Then they can spend. It is a secondary activity. They spend the interest and not the principal to sustain their capital long-term.

However, the poor and middle class spend their money and maybe invest their money in stocks, bonds, mutual funds and other flimsy digital illusions of wealth THAT ARE NOT REAL ASSETS WHICH ARE BASED ON HOT AIR! A very subtle difference, but a major reason why most people do not become wealthy on a monetary level. When I co-founded WHY BARS, I sold everything to fund my dream. Go all in or go back to your cubicle. The choice is yours. Put the money to work for you.

Wealth is not built off one transaction. Wealth is built over a series of transactions. Take money out of every cycle. The key to building wealth is to buy assets that line your pockets and eliminate your liabilities. The poor don't need charity.

They need inspiration reinforced with action along with a swift kick in the ass since 99.9999% of charities don't work. Charities are businesses in disguise. The very best thing you can do for the whole world is to make the most of yourself. Be all that you can be.

"Business is the art of extracting money from another man's pocket without resorting to violence. Business is tough these days. If a man does something wrong, he gets fined. If he does something right, he gets taxed." – Andrew Carnegie

Money is only good when it is deployed.

Money boils down to three levels:

1. Making Money (Selling)
2. Keeping Money (Storage)
3. Multiplying Money (Investing)

There is no poverty in nature. Abundance is the natural state of the universe. Poverty is only found in the human mind. Having lots of money, or heaps of federal reserve notes of fiat currency, is not the only value in the life. However, it is sadly the only thing that we as a society keep track of. Money is a great tool that provides you a sense of financial freedom.

Silver as Money

It is important to note that silver coins circulated through the United States for over 150 years.

1789- Silver is officially given legal tender status.

1792- First US Mint established.

1794- Flowing Hair Half Dime (1794-1795), Flowing Hair Half Dollar (1794-1795), Flowing Hair Dollar (1794-1795)

1795- Draped Bust Dollar (1795-1804)

1796- Draped Bust Half Dime (1796-1805), Draped Bust Dime (1796-1807), Draped Bust Quarter (1796-1807), Draped Bust Half Dollar (1796-1807)

1807- Capped Bust Half Dollar (1807-1839)

1809- Capped Bust Dime (1809-1837)

1815- Capped Bust Quarter (1815-1838)

1829- Capped Bust Half Dime (1829-1837)

1834- Coinage Act of 1834

1836- Gobrecht Dollar (1836-1839)

1837- Seated Liberty Half Dime (1837-1873), Seated Liberty Dime (1837-1891)

1837- Congress set up the gold to silver ratio of 1 to 16 (1 oz. of gold could buy 16 oz. of silver). Because of the war years in the 1860s, very little silver was actually mined. The market price skyrocketed. Miners halted their silver sales to the government and pivoted to selling to private jewelers.

1838- Seated Liberty Quarter (1838-1891)

1839- Seated Liberty Half Dollar (1839-1891)

1840- Seated Liberty Dollar (1840-1873)

1851- 3 Cent Silver Piece (1851-1873)

1864- Coinage Act of 1864

1873- Coinage Act of 1873, Trade Dollar (1873-1885)

1873- President Ulysses S. Grant demonetized silver, leaving gold as the main standard for the country's currency. This was commonly referred as the "Crime of '73." Silver was downgraded as another commodity whose value was directed by supply and demand. As silver was demonetized, there were massive silver discoveries in the Western U.S. With fresh supply, price quickly fell.

1875- 20 Cent Piece (1875-1878)

1878- Morgan Dollar (1878-1921)

1892- Barber Dime (1892-1921), Barber Quarter (1892-1916), Barber Half Dollar (1892-1915)

1900- Gold Standard Act passes. This proved to be the last nail in the coffin to take silver out of the equation as a monetary metal.

1916- Mercury Dime (1916-1945), Standing Liberty Quarter (1916-1930), Walking Liberty Half Dollar (1916-1947)

1921- Peace Dollar (1921-1935)

1932- Washington Quarter (1932-1964)

1942- Jefferson "Wartime" Nickel (1942-1945)

1946- Roosevelt Dime (1946-1964)

1948- Franklin Half Dollar (1948-1963)

1964- Kennedy Half Dollar (1964-1970)

1964- Silver was officially taken out of our coins. Just imagine if JFK completed his term.

1965- Coinage Act of 1965

1971-President Nixon ushers in the era of fiat currency backed by nothing, no gold, no silver, just paper promises. I believe that we need to go back to a silver-based currency.
Our money has to be backed by something tangible. I would highly encourage everyone to look into coin shops and "buying" or trading that monopoly paper for real hard assets.

The first time you hold a piece of silver, you will never forget it. The weight, the sound when you drop it, the shine. Silver is the real deal. Gold is the gut reaction; silver is the smart decision. Silver is a physical, tangible and fungible hard asset. We are seeing a generational shift out of paper assets and into hard assets. Below is a list of coin shops in every state to get you on your way to stacking real money.

What is Silver used for?

Silver is produced as a by-product of the copper, gold, lead and zinc mining operations. According to the U.S. Geological Survey, Mineral Commodity Summary, 2013:

-35% of U.S. silver goes to electronics

-25% coins & medals

-10% photography

-6 % jewelry & silverware

-24% "other"

Silver has over 10,000 uses. Here are just a few uses of silver:

-3D printing
-A/C units
-air purifier
-alloy finishes
-anti-freeze
-anti-microbial lab coats
-Anson food containers
-automatic bathtub cleaning system
-award medallions
-baby wipes
-birdfeeders
-brazing & soldering
-bullets
-bullion
-cabinetry
-camera film
-candlesticks
-car engine bearings
-caustic pencils with silver nitrate
-circuit boards
-coins
-colloidal silver
-computers
-conjunctivitis drops
-control rods in nuclear reactors
-curling irons
-cutting boards
-dental fillings
-denture cleaner
-deodorant
-door handles
-double pane windows
-flutes
-fuel cells
-helicopter bearings
-hospital tap water filters
-hunting clothes
-ice making machines
-jewelry
-keyboard skins
-knives
-laundry detergent
-microscopes
-milk sealing rings
-nano silver gloves
-nursing bottle
-Oddy Test in museums
-photochromic lenses
-pillowcases
-pottery glaze
-radio frequency connectors
-railway switch gear
-refrigerators
-security counter pens

-semi-conductors

-toothbrushes

-travel bags

-UFC apparel

-ultrasonic humidifier

-Vark silver foil

-vases

-washing machines

-watches

-windshields

For the last 100 years, gold has been valued while silver has been trashed. It is very possible that silver may become the first element on the periodic table that goes extinct. Silver is not widely recycled since it is used in very small amounts. The only notable exception would be in the photography industry.

Without silver, our current way of life would not be possible.

Cryptocurrency

Cryptocurrency is very similar to religions: thousands of denominations and everyone claims that they are the best one. When I was seeking investors for my company in 2021, I pitched one of my former co-workers. He was a top level executive in the car industry, we'll keep us name anonymous. We'll call him Bob. I pitched Bob for $50,000 for a percentage of my company.

Bob had previously shared the fact that his "estimated" net worth was $2 million. He put 100% of his net worth into the cryptocurrency space.

He regularly did 40+ hours per week of extensive research in the cryptocurrency space. Bob was a very bright man. His cryptocurrency portfolio crashed in 2021. He lost 80% of his net worth that year. He didn't diversify his "investments." I never jumped into crypto, and I never will.

If you cannot illustrate an idea with a crayon, it is simply worthless. In my opinion, cryptocurrency is a place where people are being sucked further into their Internet addictions with nerds everywhere. It is an electronic quicksand. Just ask yourself: Who created bitcoin? Is there government influence? Are cryptos a trojan horse to usher in a Central Based Digital Currency (CBDC) into the U.S.? Stick to silver because if you don't physically hold it, then you don't own it.

Where do we go from here?

It is important that we eliminate the Federal Reserve but without destroying the U.S. economy. This is how I would setup a new monetary system.

1. Repeal the Legal Tender Laws to allow people to choose which currency they want to be paid in. We should not force people to use a debt-based fiat currency.
2. Discontinue the printing presses so that no more Federal Reserve Notes are produced.
3. Redefine our dollar as 371.25 grams of silver.
4. Establish gold as an alternative monetary reserve. Let the market determine the gold and silver ratio.
5. Determine all of the gold and silver that the U.S. government has and use it to back the Federal Reserve Notes.
6. Pay off the National Debt with Federal Reserve Notes.
7. Determine the weight of all the gold and silver and define it in real silver dollar terms.
8. Allow free coinage of gold and silver.
9. Take all the Federal Reserve Notes in circulation and divide them by the real silver dollars in circulation to determine the value of the paper.
10. Retire all of the Federal Reserve Notes in exchange for this new system of honest money.
11. Convert all of the Federal Reserve Note contracts off of the same ratio.
12. Issue silver certificates.
13. Abolish the Federal Reserve and the IRS.

"We must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our election between economy and liberty or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debt, as that we must be taxed in our food and in our debt, as that we must be taxed in our food and in our drink, in our necessaries and our comforts, in our labors and our amusements, for our calling and our creeds, we will have no time to think, no means of calling our miss-managers to account but be glad to obtain subsistence by hiring ourselves to rivet their chains on the necks of our fellow sufferers….

And this is the tendency of all human governments.

A departure from principle in one instance becomes a precedent for another….till the bulk of society is reduced to be mere automatons of misery. And the fore-horse of this frightful team is public debt. Taxation follows that, and in its train wretchedness and oppression."
– Thomas Jefferson

"There is a worse fate. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory because it is better to die than live in slavery." – Winston Churchill

Remember, no one in the history of Earth has ever said, "I cannot wait to pay my taxes, it's so much fun!" No one likes these clowns. Why?
Taxation is legalized government theft.

Workers Compensation Tax

Not one of these 50+ taxes existed 100 years ago. The U.S. was the most prosperous nation in the world, with no national debt, the largest middle class in the world and only one parent went to work to support the family.

If they really wanted the most efficient way to collect dollars, they would just turn on their printing presses. There is plenty of currency to go around since our fiat currency Federal Reserve Notes are made out of cotton. "Money" doesn't grow on trees, but it does grow on a bush.

14. Roll out free banking. No bailouts, no usury and no fractional reserve banking. Fees could be generated from safeguarding and checking fees instead of interest.
15. Reduce the government down to a bare minimum level since they are supposed to work for the people (not the other way around).
16. Restore national independence.

One of the biggest tools the government must use is centralization. They control, tax, trap, track and regulate our money, media, legislation, food and energy. Centralized government relies on a pyramid structure. A single beam of truth collapses their fragile house of cards.

Often, wars have to be instigated to lift our economy out of a recession or depression. A great example of this is WW2. When was WW2? After the Great Depression. War is when the government tells you who the bad guy is. Revolution is when you decide that for yourself.

"Terrorism is the war of the poor, and war is the terrorism of the rich." – Sir Peter Ustinov

Centralized government creates a reality which forces the average person to only concentrate on their core desires. There is nothing special about centralized government. They simply have more time to think about how to enslave the average person who actually works for a living.

One of the major tools for a totalitarian centralized government is fractional reserve banking where they literally key in "money" out of thin air with very little cash inside the bank vaults.

This is why ATM limit withdrawals are set to $500 and inside the bank you can only withdraw $2,000 at a given time on average. They don't have all of your money at the bank!
This is a major part of the modern power downward spiral.

Governments can spend money without taxing aka deficit spending.

This leads to higher inflation. When currencies are debased through coin clipping or printing more fiat currency, life's necessities get more expensive.

Families are squeezed at the gas pumps and grocery stores. Dad works more.

Government spends more on social programs to "help."

This leads to more debt for the bankers and even more power for the politicians.

Families are now squeezed even further. Mom goes to work.

This generates more power to the state.

State schools destroy the ideals that made the country great (grammar, logic, rhetoric, etc.) and replace them with total nonsense (gender confusion studios, critical race theory, let's hate on white male studies, etc.).

The family is broken down.

Abortions are widely celebrated as the only important issue for increasingly promiscuous women, even though they should be an option for innocent rape victims.

Divorce is celebrated so that women can get "half!"

Men are replaced by government checks.

Hyperinflation skyrockets.

The economy collapses.

The parasite kills the host.

Does any of this sound familiar???

America fought demonic oligarchies. We gained freedom for the first time. We kept the fruits of our labor, which also spurred innovation. We restrained government. We created a Constitution as a defender of our rights. The middle class is the only obstacle in the way of the government being able to create a cruel system of the haves and have nots.

The way to subvert the dominant paradigm is to have more fun than they do and make sure they know it. Government literally means mind control.

"Once you stop fearing the government, the government fears you." – Robert Graham

Your best defense against government agents is silence. Verbal non-compliance is your 5th Amendment right. Be respectful, non-violent, but indicate to them that you know your rights. Nothing will be gained by explaining yourself to government employees.

Luckily for you, I have several solutions to deal with our corrupt world.

1. We must have a stable currency (silver, gold and debt-free treasury notes).
2. We must have balanced budgets where we eradicate all federal government employees down to the constitutional minimum.
3. Eliminate the income tax. As you saw with the previous current tax list, it is ridiculous. A better solution is to implement a flat 5% consumption tax on all goods sold and get rid of the complicated tax filing. This would ensure that every person pays the exact same percentage of taxes. Obviously, the accountants would be out of work.
4. Restoration to the government of issuing and coining money. Maybe let each state determine their own desired currency to further de-centralize the monetary policy.
5. Destroy the centralized banking system. Burn it to the ground since it is not working. Remember the Great Depression and the Great Recession???

6. Close down all international bases so that we can bring the troops home.
7. Freely trade with all nations, no restrictions, no tariffs and no trade embargos.
8. Allow currency competition. It could be silver, gold, debt free treasury notes, etc.
9. Roll out free coinage of silver and gold bullion into American currency. This would encourage more precious metals into the U.S. We would have uniform weights and measures. This would organically increase a debt-free money supply. Overall, this solution would put the monetary controls in the hands of the American people, outside of the banks.
10. Government employees would not be allowed to work as lobbyists.
11. Military men and women would not be allowed to work as overseas government contractors.
12. Limit executive powers like "fast track" trade negotiations to put our powers back into congress.
13. Eliminate all foundations (Clinton, Rockefeller, etc.) which are really front groups to disguise their true motives.
14. Eliminate government support for foundations since it is a big tool for the elite to amass wealth and influence. With support, these foundations are able to hide in the shadows.
15. Give tax credit vouchers to parents to send kids to better schools.
16. Implement merit based pay for public school teachers to teach valuable subjects, not communist ideologies.
17. No tenure for teachers.
18. Sell schools to private companies to implement efficient training programs to setup better paying jobs for kids when they graduate. Increase the number of apprenticeships, vocational centers, STEM programs while shutting off the valve of funding for worthless liberal arts programs taught by communists.
19. Eliminate the Department of Education, grants, student loans, state school subsidies and unions. This will drive down the cost of education dramatically.
20. Eliminate Medicare and Medicaid. Get the government out of healthcare. Let private companies and charities fill the void.
21. Empower the consumer to make their own healthcare decisions.
22. Society will quickly realize that most diseases are not genetic and preventative naturopathic medicine is cheaper and more effective than allopathic medicine and expensive surgeries. The bottom line is that we only need catastrophic health insurance for true emergencies.
23. Eliminate government bailouts, FDIC insurance and loan guarantees.
24. Legalize all drugs to dramatically free up space in jails. Let the hippies smoke and munch on special brownies.
25. Eliminate all state monopolies such as toll roads, liquor sales, lottery, casinos and property taxes.
26. Criminal Justice Reform. Longer sentences for repeat offenders. No parole board reducing sentences. Eliminate private prisons. Convicts would have to work to pay for their incarceration and restitution. They can never sit down. No chairs allowed.

Provide psychological and religious help instead of just punishment. Many criminals come from broken homes and their Dad was not around.

27. Reform the legal system. Juries would determine guilt. We would have specific accountants and appraisers to determine damages, not emotion feelings. Get rid of "pain and suffering" payments. Take trial lawyers out of the law "rain" making. Have the loser pay both legal costs.
28. Immigration Reform. Deny all non-citizens any tax-payer services. You cannot collect disability by refusing to speak English. Deport all illegals after identification. Deny illegal babies born in the U.S. citizenship. Their parents had to many kids than they could afford. Penalize the businesses that hire illegals and make them pay for their deportation.
29. Shut down all international military bases. Bring all the troops home. No deployment of troops without congressional declaration of war. Give back all occupied lands since it doesn't belong to the U.S.
30. Exit all international entanglements. Have the U.S. exit the UN, IMF, World Bank, GATT, WTO, WHO, NAFTA and CAFTA.
31. Decentralize the military and distribute assets to the states. Divide the Navy and Marines so one half is within 500 miles of the west coast and east coast.
32. States can support private militias with boot camps that emphasize discipline, rifle training, exercise and healthy nutrition. Each militia member can serve in their home state with no restrictions on guns and ammunitions.
33. State sovereignty. Individual states have the constitutional authority under the 10th Amendment to state sovereignty. Any state can nullify any federal law. The Feds use federal money to bribe states into submission.

States must stand up to reject their federal overlords.

"No army can stop an idea whose time has come." – Victor Hugo

"The first responsibility of every citizen is to question authority." – Benjamin Franklin

Native American leader "Two Eagles" was asked by a U.S. government official, "You have observed the white man for 90 years. You've seen his wars, his technological advances, you've seen his progress and the damage he's done."

The Chief nodded in agreement. The official continued, "Considering all these events, in your opinion, where did the white man go wrong?"

The Chief replied:

"When white man find land, Native Americans running it. No taxes. No debt. Plenty of buffalo. Clean water. Women did all the work. Medicine man free. Native American man spend all day hunting and fishing, all night having sex.

The Chief leaned back and smiled.

"Only white man dumb enough to think he could improve system like that!"

Conclusion

Virtually, everything in your life is based on lies-a world built on debt, death and deception because of our current fiat currency. Every fiat currency has gone to zero. Remember, paper money is not wealth itself since it is a future claim on wealth.

The average person cannot win the current financial game. Withdraw from the system and don't play the game. Stack silver, flee the cities, learn valuable skills. When our financial paradigm collapses, everyone will be affected.

Chances are good that the banks may need to tap the accounts of their "unsecured creditors." If you have money in any bank account, in the worst of circumstances, you may be vulnerable to having your dollars taken. It is common sense, for me, to keep some cash outside of the bank and in precious metals (silver). Remember, this is what I personally do, and I am not giving financial advice. It's better to be 10 years early than 1 day too late.

Our best bet is to form conscious communities who trade for goods and services with silver.

However, a barter system is great for small villages but after 100 people, it can get too complicated. Buying physical silver is a nonviolent, noncompliant way to leave the financial system. Throughout history, all paper money has gone to zero while silver has revalued itself. Silver has been used more times as money than gold in all of recorded history.

When you ask people why gold is valuable, they say, "It's shiny." With gold, it used mostly for jewelry and sent off to India and China. With silver, there are over 10,000 uses and it is in ALL of your electronics. Stacking physical silver is wealth insurance since your paper dollars always go to zero value. Silver will always have value as an industrial commodity and as real money.

About the Author

Chef Jay is the co-founder of Why Bars. He was homeless and living on the streets of Metro Detroit at age 11. He lost his entire family for 10 years. After his days in an orphanage and multiple foster homes, he woke up to the hard realities of life. Entrepreneurship was his way out of poverty.

Eight years of extensive recipe development led him to the creation of Why Bars: the #1 superfood snack bar in America. His line of super food snack bars captured the imaginations of athletes in the NHL, NBA, NFL and MLB along with over 4,000 stores in the U.S.

Jay has many books on Amazon, Nutritional Nirvana 2nd Edition, Conscious Consumption, Survey Central and Super Cacao: The Ultimate Super Food.
